VOLUNTEER TIME AND SERVICES

APA/AIA CONVENTION TORONTO

December 27 - December 30, 1984

Preparations for the Annual APA/AIA Meeting, which will be held in Toronto this year, are progressing right on schedule. However, in order to ensure that the meeting, in all its facets, runs smoothly, we will need a great number of volunteers to help in the employment offices, at the information and registration desks, to monitor papers, to assist with audio-visual equipment, and also with security in the book display room and as tour escorts, etc. Quite a few people have already signed up to donate whatever time they have available, but we are a long, long way from reaching our quota of 120 plus volunteers. So, we ask everyone to give of their time during the convention, one day, two days, or even only several hours. Please ask your friends, relatives, classmates, and co-workers to volunteer as well. We cannot afford to pay anyone, but there will be coffee, tea, etc., and snacks and a place to put your feet up every now and then, not to mention the satisfaction of having done your bit for Archaeology.

Research Trip 1982

Feb. 2

Here we are happily settled in the Royal Kensington Hotel at the beginning of our 1982 travels. The plane trip has rather, tiring for various reasons, regret that Mike is not with us this time but, instead, left with a lot of responsibility, anxiety that something would go wrong with the flight after Mary's bad travel experience at Xmas, too little space for Fred's feet. However, after ~~an~~ landing at Prestwick, which we ~~did~~ ^{meant} ~~was~~ originally, we landed at Heathrow on a bright sunny day of about 9°C - such contrast from the enormous piles of snow beside our city streets. After an afternoon sleep we felt better - went to Victoria Station and bought tickets to go by coach to see Mary at York, since British Rail is on strike & there are very few trains. Had a pizza supper before returning to the hotel for a well-earned good night's sleep.

82.1-4A ^{hendon} - Bell tower at front of St. Mary ^{le Bow}

Started today with a very enjoyable continental help-yourself breakfast at the hotel coffee shop. Then Fred spent considerable time explaining how a camera works as I hope to take better pictures this trip. Took the West Kensington station instead of High St Kensington, to get to the Victoria & Albert Museum. Enjoyed the museum very much & saw the Condes collection of paintings & the Constable collection both given to the Museum plus a lot of Early & Byzantine items. After lunch in our hotel room we took the tube to see the Church of St. Mary le Bow which we found up quaint narrow old-world Bow Lane - a small church with a very high bell tower (by Christopher Wren) and vestiges of a crypt the oldest of it. The Archivist met us & invited us back to their records & crypt in June. This was a thrill! Went on to find Paternoster Row which is all post-WWII rebuilding. We were thrilled to find Amen Court which is still surrounded by original houses - 2 Amen Corner must have been the bldg. at the corner of the complex. It is now a new bldg. having apparently been bombed like so much of the area around St. Pauls. There are many new bldgs. but it seems that like St. Pauls, St. Mary le Bow, Amen Court & two other churches were spared.

Sutton Hoo Ship Burial

Mildenhall Treasure & Colbridge hoax

Today I got myself to the B Mus. alone on the subway and back again without error & not too much worry.

We finished the day with a lovely Indian dinner down the street.

Feb. 5/82

Were up early for the hotel breakfast and then got into a taxi with only the necessary baggage (the rest stored at the hotel) and had a very scenic drive to the Victoria Coach Terminal. Our taxi ^{driver} was a pleasant fellow who gave an interesting ~~overview~~ of several topics eg. the various ways of getting in from Heathrow, the English love of growing their flowers & broad-leaved evergreens. We got on a super bus with huge windows which gave a superb view of London as we headed northward out of the city.

I enjoyed the whole ride greatly and got a good idea of the appearance of the English countryside especially during the 1st half of the 7hr. drive. Rain came on but was over by the time we reached York. James came to meet us as well as Mary & off we went to Beachfield for a good supper with Debbie & Margaret. Mrs. Carlton (wife of Mary's sponsor) came to take us ~~two~~ & Mary to a performance of Fiddler on the Roof which was excellent.

At last I have seen this famous and thought provoking play. It was extremely well done. Mrs. Carlton returned us to Greystones for our first night at a bed & breakfast.

~~82.1.10 York - view from tower towards Minster~~

Enjoyed our first English breakfast ^{at a B + B} & the company of a Scottish couple at our table. Mary then arrived & off we went on a lovely tour of York with her. We saw the River Ouse, the Heritage Centre, the Salute for the Queen's Accession (in the Park, where Mary's classmate Anne met us), the Castle Museum, the street called Shambles & another old street, part of the wall, the Minster. I had lunch at Andros Coffee House. A rest felt good after so much walking before we took James to dinner at an Indian restaurant. He really is a very nice fellow & we have certainly enjoyed coming to know him.

Jeh, 7/82

Had our second very nice English breakfast at the Treptons, with a nice young English couple who are botanists. Mary arrived & also James to load up our luggage.

James, bless his thoughtful heart, offered to go back to Mary's place & get the hat she had made for me but forgotten.

Service at the Munster was in the choir so we now have seen quite a lot of this "largest cathedral in England". The sermon was particularly good about Christians having one foot in heaven & one on earth.

Mary & James had a fast lunch ready for us to eat in James' room & then he drove us to the coach station. Our visit at York seemed terribly short & we were loath to say "Goodbye" to them. James is a most thoughtful boy and a gem in many ways we agree. It is very nice that Mary has had such a nice friend this year after her experience over Geoff.

This coach trip did not have rain so we got a better view of the Midland country with its "Dark Botanic mills" e.g. Sheffield, & England's "green pleasant land" further south with its small fields & innumerable hedgerows.

82.1.12 Bologne - as our ferry approached hp really early this a.m. so we could start breakfast as early as poss., collect our stored baggage and get a cab for Victoria Station & the train for Folkestone. The number of people coming & going at V. Stat. is staggering; disrupt rail service in England is certainly on a par. The English train ride was very pleasant as we watched extensive pasture land slip by with large groups of sheep
from time to time and in places orchards, hops and veg. gardens. But I can't say I enjoyed the Channel Crossing - suddenly it came over me that I was leaving the "known", a very nice known as Mary has been & is still part of it, and crossing over to a very big unknown where all sorts of problems are likely to surface from time to time.
However I felt better when we got onto the Paris train & quite excited when we got to our hotel (Navarino et Angletore), spoke to our charming French hostess in French & then went out to a Bureau de Change followed by a nice supper. Think I am going to really enjoy things now.

I finished our packing, after another nice continental breakfast at the Navarin Hotel, while Fred went to get the car from the parking garage. Wrote my last cards & really have tried to send home lots of mail. It really seemed too bad to leave our nice friendly little hotel but we started off after getting everything into the car. It is lost of course on our way to the peripherique but finally made it. The car is very comfortable & the French roads wonderful so we enjoyed the French countryside today.

It was a great thrill to drive up to Chartres again but I was not prepared for the great thrill of the windows. They were the most exquisite jewels in this winter light - impossible to describe with their great variety of colours & tiny figures making such breathtaking patterns & colour combinations.

We could not enter Tours (cath. St. Gatien) but found the outside extremely interesting with its complicated buttressing of the apse & chevet & measures to buttress the N transept & protect its rose. N door blocked up. It has suffered damage at different times & has a lot of scaffolding on the facade. Tonight at a hotel at Chateaufort.

82.3.1 Angoulême - view of ~~2~~ end of Cath. S. Pierre

Left our pink flowered room at l'Escale (port of call) Hotel after a petit déjeuner in their dining room and headed for Poitiers. There were the usual difficulties of finding our way in a strange old town but eventually we were parked in front of the city hall and found our way through the narrow streets to ^{the} Eglise de Notre Dame la Grande. One gets a lovely view of this church with the narrow street with its old houses passing toward its east end. Inside the coloured columns (painted) and other painted decoration on walls & ceiling was a surprise to me.

Much harder to photograph the cathedral as there is no space to get in the whole facade. Interior very magnific (the Frenchman) with one side aisle which becomes smaller along the choir. ~~very unusual feature~~ is the flat apse end ~~combination of Romanesque & of Byz.~~ Gothic. Several beautiful windows reminiscent of Chartres - the one at the apse end being the most famous. Interior gallery around the bldg. interesting.

Could not get into Ste Radegonde
but it was interesting. See Frenchman
The Baptistery very interesting - perhaps oldest Xian bldg. in France See Frenchman

Had a nice picnic lunch in an Aire de Repas & then proceeded to Angoulême where the Romanesque Cath.
S. Pierre was indeed interesting. Sculptures on facade instructive & fascinating.
Have ceiling (diaz's cupolas) planned to blend with ~~some~~ ^{gargue cupola} over transept was very successful. Interior here was well lit with no side aisles. The bell tower is renowned as a masterpiece among Romanesque towers.

We found a fascinating place to stay - Hotel des Griffons. It is a very old stone house which has been remodelled as a quite elegant hotel. The furnishings used are beautiful, but even more interesting are the stone walls,
huge support beams, fireplace in our room,
thick exterior walls which you can still see.
The Drome flows by outside & there is even an arched opening under the house to allow the river to pass under should it ever be that high.

Were sorry to leave our beautiful old house restored as a hotel but had a lot of churches to see today.
Périgueux - spent most time here - most interesting with its Greek + plan, ~~lower~~ ^{lower} ~~capitals~~ ^{capitals} + a larger one over the crossing. The barrel vaulting + round arches of the interior especially in the 4 central supports are very conspicuous + simple in plan.
Agen - great contrast between dark Romanesque crossing + choir here + more brightly lit simple Gothic nave.
Moissac - interior not striking - looks as though it had been papered all over - must be painted.
Cahor - no transept tympanum is the interesting thing here with Ascension scene. Interior a bit damaged, it was full of scaffolding.
Very glad when Fred decided to stop at Cahor in the evening - we found a hotel before Montauban + Albi.

Feb. 14/82

82.3.16 Carcassonne from a distance

82.3.17. Near Montpellier? vineyards

This was a day primarily of travel
c. 500 miles of it. We made a simple breakfast in our hotel ^{between Carcassonne & Montpellier} room at Albi and left quietly before anyone was up.
Foggy to start but better as it got light.

Ever since our travels began we have been amazed at how different the seasons are here than at home - spring wheat coming up in England, well started in N. France along with pansies in bloom in large numbers.
For three days now we have seen flowering shrubs & fruit trees in bloom in increasing profusion. Yesterday we saw roses in ~~blooms~~ ^{leaf} & an occasional palm tree. Today vineyards along S. France soon to be bursting into leaf it seems.

Our route today stretched from Montauban through Toulouse, Carcassonne, Montpellier, Nîmes, Arles,
Aix en Provence, Cannes, Nice to Savona.
We were so relieved to end the drive
(in the rain) & find the Agyp Motel that Fred suggested we go out to dinner to relax & celebrate Valentine's Day. Had our first experience of a noisy hotel dining room filled with Italians.

From our Agis room at Grosseto tonight (having just made ourselves a good dinner) we can relax and look back on a varied & interesting day. Unfortunately it was raining quite a lot as we came around the coast from Savona to beyond Carrara so the driving was quite difficult and the views not what they can be. Would have liked more pictures but impossible.

Nevertheless the succession of galleries & viadotte impress one as a tremendous engineering achievement & I could see quite a lot of the closely packed mt. terrain with the many hillside settlements.

The afternoon began our study of Etruscan sites - Populonia with its numerous tumuli low down & town site high up -
- Vetulonia with a couple of large tombs high up.

Rain to start the day which is not so good.
 Returned to Vetulonia but found little more than yesterday. Went up to Massa Maritima to see their cathedral which has a wonderful position at the back of their central square.
 Bought groceries from such a pleasant Italian grocer.

In the afternoon went to see Cosa (Ansedonia)
 - Etruscan temple remains quite clear on their Crp.
 Roman take over ^{down} a province apparent in the forum & a house. A spectacular Roman achievement can still be seen at the waterfront below where they cut a large channel to let water from the med.
 pass through a long channel to an artificial harbour where ships could shelter. A large area of reeds in the stream in the middle mark the harbour area.

Got to Vulci just at dusk to find a splendid Roman bridge spanning a river gorge, with a later fortress added. What a stronghold! Staying 2 nights at the Agip at Montalto di Castro.

straight!) to find the long string of tombs cut in the

necropolis with architectural facades to the tombs which are actually below them - stairways between ⑥ Sutri - it was a shame we could not get into the locked church - must do it another time

Left the Agip at Montalto di Castro in good time to lie at the Tarquinia museum when it opened. Unfortunately the tomb paintings are in Rome for repairs. Next went to Civitavecchia & after asking directions several times found our way to the Therms of Trajan which were quite impressive. Saw the first roses in bloom there.

Returned to Tarquinia and went with a guide who opened several of the necropolis tombs for six of us visitors. The paintings in them were really very lovely. Next found our way to the acropolis of ancient Tarquinia. Last stop was Cerveteri where we had a short while to see some of the remarkable tumulus tombs in the huge Banditaccia necropolis.

The traffic in Rome as we neared our destination was appalling & it was a great relief to reach the Albergo San Eusebio. We are in the "new wing" which does not seem nearly as nice as where we were previously but perhaps tomorrow things will look more promising.

Today began with a tearful discussion of the fact that the pace of this trip is proving too tiring for me & leading to all sorts of negative feelings. To our help & surprise Betty will be tied up till Monday so the pace is ^{unpleasant!} S. Paolo fuori le Mura - eastress inside is overwhelming. Use of diff. coloured marbles covers everything in a variety of patterns. Windows are all a bit different & are reminiscent of grilles but are thin strips of split marbles of a yellowy tone. The above was the first church visited & after buying from our friendly merchants at Viale Aventino we had a nice lunch at the hotel & then went off to see the above churches which I very much enjoyed.

We had a really super day today & spent it all going around Rome to see churches especially. It was sunny which encouraged photography and we had such interesting experiences.

What a thrill to finally get into S. M. d'Aracoeli. The climb up that long stairway is more than worth it to reach the Arch of the Capitoline, think of the Silenus legend & sense that this church is really under the heavens with its many chandeliers which must look like stars when lit.

Col. of Trajan in scaffolding as are many other buildings in Rome - maybe they do it in winter. Walked right round the Pantheon for the first time which was very instructive. Had my first visit to Markets of Trajan which really gave an impressive undertaking.

But visiting S. Agata dei Goti was the climax - the priest who let us in was so quietly courteous and welcoming - he seemed to us a rarity & from another world. The church reminds one of Holy Trinity in Toronto - surrounded tightly by new buildings.

This seemed more like Sunday than the last one did as we began it by looking around S. Sabina with its wonderful old carved wooden doors, anc. cols. in the narthex & other incorporated pieces of antiquity. Quite a surprise to see architrave blocks framing the doorway with the guttae all in place.

Had an early lunch & then set off to see churches again after first walking around the Praetorian Camp. S. M. M. first & then S. Eusebio which was locked. Found S. Vito in Macello accidentally but did not go in. Waited some time for S. Mark, ai Monte to be opened. Apparently it is a very early titulus (Agnitius) of the III & inside the altar end of the church is at a high level so that the remains of the preceding building (S?) could be kept in the crypt. Outside the street wall very interesting because clearly there is early construction at the base of the wall - it even looks as though blocks of the service had been brought & used here. The apse is very high indicating that it contains two or more levels. One entered from the east. Planned to stop at Marcellino & Pietro & did so but took no pictures as it had been rebuilt several times (was small) & there was no evidence of any old parts.

S. Quattro Coronati was quite different. A long climb up the street to the entrance end at the east and then one passed through 2 courtyards (the inner one having been part of the earlier wide naved church). This is the only church I have seen with the upper gallery for the women. The various stages of construction very interesting. A lovely nun let me into the cloister & later asked if I would like to stay for prayers - the sweetest person I met all day. A lovely dinner at a restaurant on Viale Aventino topped off a lovely day.

N.B. In the matter of all the churches in Rome pictured he dare to check on what Rome's Victor, the Blue Guide Frenchman and any other authority has to say because it will clarify what I photographed as well as what I could not photograph.

But what a start we got to find the ferry Grechia was not sailing tonight because of a strike of the crew - this news after making our way very slowly through blocks of Brindisians all out with their children in fancy costume to celebrate the last night of carnival. No hope of a hotel in Brindisi so we headed back to Agip at Bari. Made our fancy pass in turning off to the Park Hotel Therme at Torre Caninae to find it was closed & then had trouble getting back on the road. We were very glad to be welcomed finally at Agip.

We were very relieved when the Agip man phoned the ferry line for us to find we could go on another ferry the Itriaia at noon. Got the formalities done in Brindisi & then prepared to get on the ferry along with an astonishingly large number of backpacking students.

A good lunch in the self serve part of the boat made us feel really great & all set up.

During our rest time a very lively bunch of the young people got started singing outside our cabin & put on a really great concert of favourite songs.

Unfortunately it began to get quite noisy & I got the "Oh My's" which kept me isolated in the cabin more than I had expected. However, lying still was O.K. and got quite a lot of extra rest as a result.

Still taking it easy this a.m. but it gradually got smoother & I enjoyed a couple of rolls in the cabin.

A long wait to get off the ferry as we had been one of the first on - the diesel fumes in the car deck were overpowering. It was raining, which wasn't very cheerful, but we got the car through customs, got some lunch at a dock-side restaurant where Fred was remembered, sent a telegram to the school & were on our way to Corinth.

After finding a hotel we headed for the isthmus for a "little something" to celebrate our arrival in Greece. Our pizza supper near the seashore was very good - so after getting cleaned up tonight we will be ready for Athens tomorrow & the next stage of our big adventure.

of our sojourn in Greece.

The day was so great we drove first up Chnocorinth to take some pictures of the wonderful clear view, then on to the isthmus where my canal shots should be good.

It was lovely to drive in to Athens able to see so much. There are an incredible no. of ships in the gulf standing by idly. For our arrangement we could see the akropolis & its bldgs, & hykabytos very clearly as we drove

Sarah Bissel is here & delighted to see us.
Just great to see Judith Binder at tea & she wanted to know all about Mike. Did some shopping ^{at the market} & went to Philipou's for supper so feel we have arrived & are off to a really good start.

Feb 27/82

Great to start having meals at home and getting to know people.

Summoned Judith from the library so we could show her Mike's pictures, in all of which she was very much interested. Also asked her to have dinner with us on Monday, being Clean Monday a good day to eat out. She was very enthused.

We were invited to the Immemorables for tea which was ever so nice. The Germadeion West House has been redecorated, looks lovely. Ever so pleasant to be welcomed by the Immemorables. We heard a great deal about all the difficulties the foreign schools now face due to heretics Shear's tactless likewords. It is most unfortunate so much difficulty should have been stirred up.

Next we drove Sarah Bissel and all her belongings out to her apartment on lower Pymettos. She certainly is plucky to be going out there on her own although the move will be a great compensation. We took her to dinner at a nearby taverna so far we have contributed to helping her settle & adjust which cannot be easy for her all alone & with a bad cold.

82.6.9-10 Athens - kids at Nat. Garden
" " Athens - kids in front of Parl. Bldg.

This was our first morning back at St. Paul's Anglican Church where we felt pretty much at home.

Jeremy Peake is still rector & certainly has a powerful singing voice. Preached a good sermon on the reasons for and benefits of fasting. I think we both felt very queer & lonely on our return to the School parking lot knowing we would not be going in to the warm homey atmosphere of the West House. Oh well we made out although it is terribly quiet around the School with so many away for ΚΑΒΑΡΑ ΔΕΠΤΕΡΑ week-end.

I was certainly glad we had the dinner invitation at the Williams' & look forward to. Before going I went down to the National Gardens to take some pictures of the kids in costume. I was very nice to find out what the Can. Archaeological Institute is doing here in Athens & what their future plans are. There is now a Can. Institute for Mediterranean Studies which shelters the Can. Ar. I. & other children & sounds like a big thing. Caroline had a lovely dinner but I must say I find her rather overpowering.

March 1/82

Very quiet around the School on this holiday week-end (Καρά Δευτέρα) - no breakfast, tea, ouzo or dinner (no lunches any day now except Saturday) so we made out with picnicing in our room for breakfast & lunch. Realized Fred's cold (which he admitted to on our arrival in Athens) was not disappearing but was nevertheless disturbed & disappointed when, on returning to our room where he was snoozing, ~~he~~ learned his temperature was going up. Went out to get him the approp. drinks & meal items and then set out to take Judith to dinner myself.

We went to Portofino's as she said she "adores pizza" & had a lovely time. She was most kind & interested in my chatter about the kids, my English relatives, and the economic situation at U. of T. I was disturbed to learn that the Edmonsons had no job to go to when they left here before Xmas.

March 2³/82

Life is being held up a bit by Fred's cold, which is not clearing quickly. We are putting off any trips until he is better. Everyone else seems to have had the same thing. However it is certainly forcing me to get out on my own to Post Office, Drug Store, drink store, grocery etc.

However we did make it tonight (Mar. 3) to have a drink with Sara Bissel at the Carols' (Harry & Olive) who have the lower apartment in housing. So nice to visit with such a cheery couple.

Mar 4/82

Last night the worst with Fred's cold and his temp. went so high he thought a doctor might be needed today.

However morning brought improvement & he went to breakfast & dinner (a good one). This was the day we were able to move to the two rooms next to the entrance door. We are now completely settled and will enjoy our saloon, bath, & bedroom with the space, sun, mine very much,

March 5/82

Fred coming along quite well now but will lie low another day.

Had a glorious time after breakfast going to the Market by myself. I enjoyed seeing the gorgeous displays of fruit & veg. so much I just walked back & forth having a good time before making my decisions.

March 6/82

Fred came shopping with me before lunch but was very tired. Progress is slow.

March 7/82

Desimal morning weatherwise. Walked to church alone & was delighted to find I had been sitting beside Natalie Mc Adam, from Edmonton, who has lived in Malta, brought up a family & is here on a holiday. I think we have quite a lot in common & it was a great encouragement to me to meet someone here with whom I can communicate so easily. After leaving church we met three others from Canada including the Wahles who are at the School from the Camrose Lutheran College

March 8/82

Natalie McAdam came to the School first thing and we had a wonderful morning going to the Canadian Institute where Susan Young showed us all around the new offices which the Can. Archaeol. Inst. in Athens now occupies next door to the Can. Embassy to the Can. Embassy where we saw their lovely reading room & how they deal with enquiries to the Bernadinean Library which anyone can use.

Before dinner Fred was examined by Dr. S. Kyriotes who said he had a secondary infection stuck in his sinuses. We bought the three kinds of medicine prescribed & hope for great things.

A good deal of time today in the library where the stacks are cold.

After tea had a most interesting talk by Doug Cox on his violin making, with examples to see, and then a performance of Beethoven played on a Cox violin by an Athenian violinist with a pianist accompanying.

Fred is feeling much better which is an immense relief.

Today was another wonderful morning as we headed for Brauron. Started with the museum which I remember visiting with students, chiefly because of the Artemis Stoa model. It was so nice to be alone with Ted in the museum where we could discuss things. Lots of arkhtoi (bears) represented by chairs, heads, & small statues; ~~we~~ also good votive reliefs & small objects. Very good collection of pottery from near Brauron incl. Mycenaean & a lot of very nice geometric - simulation of basket patterns & shapes, meander & swastika motifs, bands painted while pot was turning slowly on the wheel, all represented many times over.

I got a really great thrill when I got to the Early X basilica - my first one visited!

It corresponds very well with Krauthheimer's description except that there is much more left than his photo suggests. Took several overall views + Fred took details for me. Then revisited the Artemis Sanc. with the St. George chapel + went on to find the temple remains at Koutsas

March 12/82

Rain today but shopped at the market & got some flowers for Oline Carl who has had a relapse and was feeling rather depressed when I stepped in to see her.

Changed our plans & went to the National Museum instead of out to the country. Fred gave an interesting commentary.

Then we took off for Glyfada & lunch with Natalie McAdam. Her lunch was a real treat. Tried to help her all we could with info before her daughter arrives tomorrow.

Went with Sarah Bixel to the Green Door on n. side of ~~Glyfada~~^{Highway 104} for supper in a real Greek taverna. I think Sarah enjoys the atmosphere more & can put up with the oil better than we can.

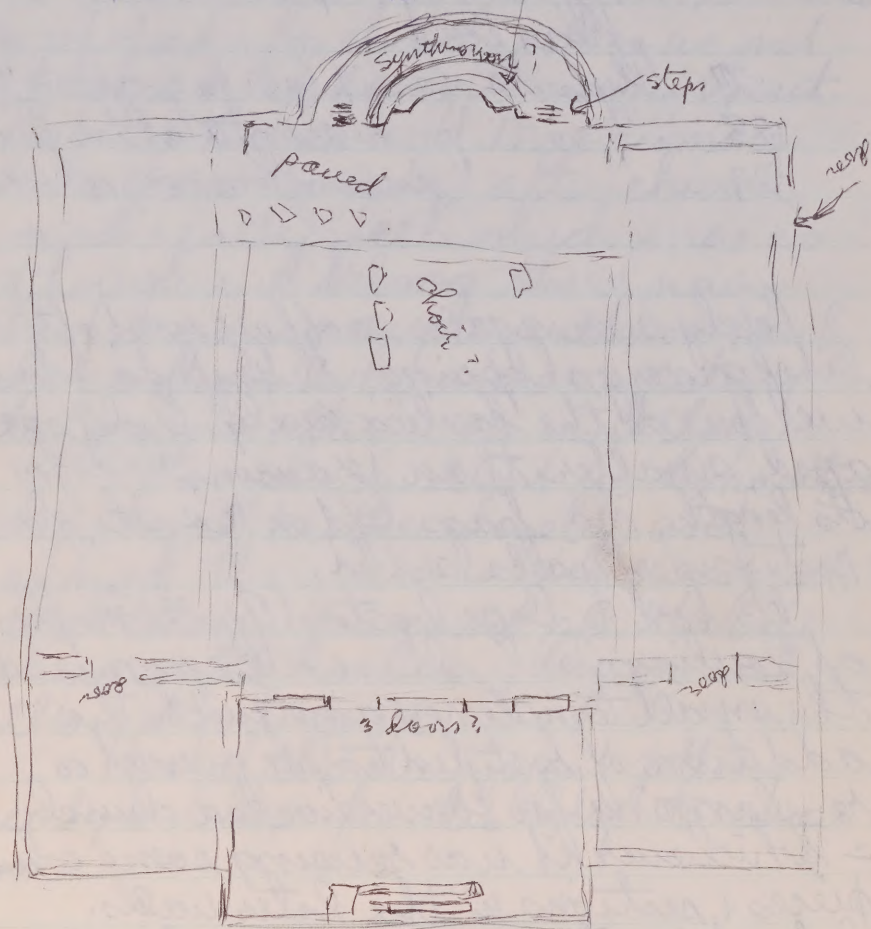

Wrapped in to the students last party briefly. Some of the costumes for "Kolonaki Chic" were pretty funny.

Went on to Cape Boster (Apollo Temple) at Vouliagmeni where we examined the small temple remains with the addition of restyled temple precined or re-planning for conversion to a church - whichever it was reusing some column pieces & sections in the later walls. Interesting items were a marble throne (resembling a karekha), an altar with animal feet & millions of tadpoles in the water.

After lunch a rest, the library, tea and then we had the very interesting experience of going to the Annual Fellowship Vespers at the little Metropolis where the choir (40 men) singing in Greek & the Bishop preaching in English were memorable experiences.

Met a young couple, with son Paul, from Iran who are emigrating to Canada after 2 yrs. in Athens.

After lunch went up Hykavitos by myself (rather lonely) and enjoyed the view which was quite good today. You could see the idle ships in the harbour, Aegina and the Pelop. beyond.

seen under the harbour is now likely under the artificial part of new Gythieion. Got names Marathonisi & Crangon straightened out.

Had a nice picnic near the three islands of Tunarus but could not find remains of the town.

Headed for Shala in our efforts to find the green porphyry quarry at Croceae from the south.
With a tremendous amount of driving on narrow back roads & in the end found it because of the numerous small pieces of the stone beside the road.
Think we found where the quarries were but the rejected frags are the most conspicuous aspect.
Felt this discovery was a triumph & came back to Left Lytheion after doing some shopping & picturing the harbour. First march was for Las on the Hill of Passara. Were surprised at how easy it was to find the hill with the ruined medieval fortress and had a strenuous climb to the top.

A couple of sheep dogs did not care for our presence. Took a lot of black & whites of & from the hill it was such a find.

Spent the rest of mid day figuring out the Bartolonia & Smerus Rivers.

Photographed Vathy Bay, Ogeranos, Alyria, Skoutari peninsula and figured out where Pausanias wrote in this region.

I don't forget the type given over river of Carapollis between Vathy Skoutari Bay & Parnon.

Returned from Skoutari & went to ^{III} 1894 ^{on} ^{Saras} Areopolis & then Pyrrichus where we found the ruined church & Church of Dormition in this very windy, cold, everything of stone town.

Took general views of the town - Leuthrone from which Pausanias took a ship to C. Boenaeum. Then tried to find the church on Shepa peninsula but gave up. The Mani towers all around this part fascinating.

After lunch eaten in Betay at the bottom of Kionia slope we started the climb up. It really was strenuous in spite of our finding a couple of faint paths. It was ever so much more exciting to see the temples this time than last time. Next time we will bring the pictures & stay for the day. Today really was breathtaking as we circled the Mani & were on top of the world on some a couple of new rds at the s. tip. We are delighted to find the two wells at Pyrrichos & to have a village, ~~post~~ beside the old one. Had a pit beside the road below Kionia by myself while Fred drove back for the bus left beside the road. The road from Krokhalia up, around over, back forth through the high parts of the mountains to Alika seems all new & very exciting & spectacular.
From Alika we took what is likely a new road also but still only dirt for the most part & so not only exciting but also rather scary as you cling to the cliffs all the way to Porto Luaglio. From there we climbed to the church & washed s. till we passed Port Vathy & looked down on Port Kisternes. 2 1/4 hrs down & back, all very worthwhile!

The present Koimesis Ch. is being beautifully

Weather certainly did break last night! The hotel rattled all night, a fierce wind was blowing as we left the hotel and dark threatening clouds hung over the mountains. We investigated the Bardounia R. after leaving Mytheion and then headed homeward. It did not actually rain heavily but it was very cold. Stopped at Tripolis for souvlaki, fetta, pastes for lunch. The orange dumping above Argos Plain was very startling.

It was very nice to get back to our nook at the School in Athens and we were overjoyed to receive fine letters!

Our route fr. Ag. Petros to Dourbura & the highway ~~to~~ yesterday meant we did not see the Herms which Paus. said marked the place where three boundaries met w. of Ag. Petros. So off we went this a.m. to pick up the road for Karyēs in the hopes of doing the missing strip for Karyēs past the Herms, to Ag. Petros. A farmer told us we might be able to get part way there on the muddy, country rd with streams of melt water coming down - snow covered stretches after we had proceeded c. 2-kilometres.

Thank goodness there was no question of doing this stretch w. fr. Ag. Petros yesterday as it was indeed impassable as we approached the top. Fred walked far enough to be in the area of the Herms & then we turned Petsey around & worked our way back through the bad spots to Karyēs. After lunch we went to ^(Βέλοερα) Bresthera where we could see the valley of the ~~Elephina~~ Elephina which must have been Paus.' route from Karyēs to Sellasia. Very interesting to see what all these landmarks are really like when you are on the spot & not just reading about them. Second night at Spanta.

We took the rd n.w. fr. Sparta along the Eurotas but after a while the rd. piling away fr. the valley floor of Eurotas, so we were then above Paris, Troger & all the planned route of the railway (never built). Scenery up there through Mastri, Mastoria, Giogitsi, Kogganikos very spectacular & an amazing place for people to choose as village sites. There planted beside the rd. & benches beside it too were a lovely touch. Reached Chelmos & much interested to see that roads to Megalopolis, Tripolis are in a narrow defensible defile. There must have been action here several times in the past to judge from the museum we passed.
Fred delighted to find a rd. very agrotik & rough in spots, which took us back on other side of Eurotas valley.
Very glad to reach Pellana, after 4 fords & get directions which took us across the river to Konidhiza & Sellasia. We came as close as possible by car have been others' route) which likely few others have done, Sparta again at night.

After a last bit of shopping in Sparta we set off for Geraki on an asphalt rd. It is the most narrow streeted village yet by a long shot & going through town, up & down, was rather scary. We very much enjoyed going up the heavily ridged & see the Frankish Castle & seeing the numerous old Byz. churches at lower edge of town with anc. rosts built into them. A very large no. of anc. blocks used & an odd one from an earlier church. Some of the local boys were fascinated with our Greek map. After lunch, set off toward Mari where once again I felt uncertain about unknown roads especially as it was raining. However the rd. turned out to be O.K. as did today as we found Mari high up at the end of a long valley where indeed the amount of spring water is unbelievable. After Mari (anc. Marios) we went through Ag. Dimitrios, Piata, Apidhria (anc. Palai) Moladi before reaching Monemvasia, where we have a nice room with the sound of waves crashing below. We went out for a nice fish dinner & were much interested to find the Greek proprietors had lived in Australia several years & had a noticeable Australian accent.

82.10.8 Vaphio tholos tomb.
(Βαφειο)

Really it seems to have got wetter & wetter through all of this second trip of ours to Laconia. After leaving Monemvasia we took the turn-off for Epidaurus himera which we found fairly soon. The name Palaea Monemvasia seems to have been attached to it when people moved from it (i.e. Ep. hi) to found the city of Mon. on the rock. Name P. Monem. later became name of cluster of new houses further along shore.

Made our way back almost to Sparta where with difficulty we found our way to the Vaphio tholos tomb. Got lost in the pine groves going back to the car, Imagio. And it was raining too.

Next plan was to take the turn-off near Tripolis & the road leading to Astros. Found our way but also discovered errors in our maps. That road was ^{though there was fog to start} great good asphalt & magnificent scenery as we wound around the mountains & along one side of a long gorge. Went down the east side then of the Malak peninsula as far as the Plaka of Leonidion. Found a hotel in this small little harbour spot with an immensely long beach & will hear the waves beautifully all night!

Took the rd. from Astros up the plain then the gorge to the Arcadian plain around Tripolis with its extensive orchards. Before Sparta we stopped & got off the road to look for the site of anc. Met several campers along the way. This time we walked right through the little settlement at Kisternes, around the head of the bay and along the hydro line to the ridge with the lighthouse at its end. It was thrilling to have lunch out there on the top of the world. Saw a three day old donkeylet on the way back to Kisternes. Along the road back the carpets of wild flowers were unbelievable. Spent this a.m. around Kalamata at the Castro (lovely bird house with ca 20 birds & a peacock), the market, the museum (very interesting with some of ancient, some Byzantine, some revolutionary history).

Went down then to Kitzies a tiny harbour just beginning to develop.

Stopped for a drink and shortly later for lunch along the shore where that spectacular gorge's river reaches the sea as nothing very much really.

Went on from Kalamata after lunch to look for anc. Thouria, & springs at Pydimia (several of them), Aythya where there was one under an enormous plane tree & others as "matia" in the fields.

Ended the day with a lovely fish dinner at the sea shore & a visit to the Zapharoplasteis.

church on top of the hill. Lovely visit at Koroni where we visited the monastery (lovely quiet

turned out to be very rough but the huge Venetian fortress there was well worth it, it was so vast & impressive. Quick look at

- 82.11.14 Anc. Messene - poppies in Asclepion 15 Before Eleusis - idle ship outside Piraeus

Left Kalamata this a.m. & headed for ancient Messene i.e. the Asclepion below Maaronati where Fred spent some time on a small temple.

Not far north we passed through Neochori with a fascinating Y shaped bridge, in the middle of town, to allow one to cross two small rivers which merge, one of which may flood at times. Some blocks of the Greek phase visible still in position & the whole thing has been maintained in a usable state.

Our route home took us through (or past) Megalopolis, Tripolis (where we stopped for Easter cookies) over the new road down the switch backs to the Argos plain (oranges now very smelly), stop at the Isthmus for coffee & home to Athens.

Easter week-end in Athens

82.11.16+17 lamb roast at the Tracy's
for Easter

This was a very interesting experience with opportunities to observe the Greek scene and the members of the Amer. Sch. of Classical Studies.

First of all there was great uncertainty about ~~about~~ which stores & restaurants would be closed on the week-end. So shopped quite a bit on Thurs. On the evening ^{of Friday} went with the Carols & Steve Reinert to Ag. Dionysos to the Egitérios service. A lot of people in the church ~~where~~ the service, which preceded the procession, was a new experience. Followed the procession with our candles & back into church till end of service. Music very beautiful in its way but service does not permit much participation from people. Sat. aft. we had a lovely tea for the students in the sun on the colonnade outside our suite. They were most appreciative & we loved doing it.

We very much enjoyed our Easter service at St. Paul's where the sermon was very convincing and all the loveliest hymns were included. Went over to the Tracy's next to help turn the lamb spits & later came back to join the others to eat the lovely dinner of roasted lamb & other goodies. It concluded a lovely Easter day.

Fred took me round quite a bit of the same & pointed a number of interesting things I had not seen before. Then I stayed to examine the Early X basilica while he went off to see ~~some~~ late temples

The basilica was very interesting and fairly easy to trace by means of Hecantheimer's plan. There seemed to be a surprising variety of cols. Some later alteration must have been made to give a chancel area? Try to go here again. Visibility today was wonderful.

On hilltop s.w. of Kephalo found a hilltop with several terrace walls which contained alot of large ancient ^{rough} blocks. On top of uppermost terrace a small ruined church built largely of very large (in some cases) ancient blocks. One extremely large dark grey block nearly with a huge lewis cutting thro
it. Position of the church was actually on the foundations of a temple. This area examined thoroughly as pieces of the T were found about it. Further along the rd. we found the second T also with numerous pieces present, including heart shaped corner cols.

A real thrill came when we visited the basilicas of S. Stephanos - 2 of them, a chapel
+ a baptistry, all with much of walls remaining as many other pieces - columns, bases, + pieces of ambros, chancel screen footings, support blocks, part of lived font of baptistry. The plan was excellent + to see so much of these churches in their lonely location by the sea was a thought provoking experience Perhaps so much remains because this end of the island not productive + pop. may have stayed small Ended the day with a lovely light dinner.

Had a lovely visit this a.m. at Pyli with giagias & kids while they photographed the Karmeleion. Had to go back after lunch & redo so that time I was entertained as a guest. Drove back to Kos where we did as much as possible of the anc. city. I regrettably fell at one point & banged my thumb. I wonder what the swollen area of my neck below my right ear will turn out to be? Third & last night in our room at Kos city tonight.

10 Rhodes - fishing caigues & others in ^{Emporicho} hinen Got up at 6:00 a.m. to be ready to leave our hotel by taxi for the airport of Kos. The flight to Rhodes by the 18 seater "Shivan"
was a new experience. We flew quite low, felt the weather we went through & had a great view of the Turkish mainland.

Took a bus from the airport into Rhodes city to look around a bit & made a trip to Rodini to see the "Tomb of the Pharoahs". After lunch returned to the airport & did some letter writing.
Unexpectedly a second small plane, this time to take us to Ikra. The airport on the east side was the most desolate place imaginable. A girl peddling rooms persuaded us to follow her so we found ourselves in a simple earth floor room off a family court with the simplest equipment. Explored the town a bit which is certainly spectacular when one looks down the cliffs into the caldera.

Took the bus this a.m. to ~~74~~ Kamari and climbed the roadway (1000' ascent) to the leg. of the site of anc. Thera which occupies the spectacular site of the top of the mt. Mesa Vouno. The wind was terribly strong as it funnelled between that mt. & Ag. Nicholas to the n.
Site was closing so we stayed only long enough to picture S. Stefanos then went down other side of mt. to Perissa where we had a drink & then Hub found his tomb inside the monastery. Decided to walk to Emboreion & just beyond it found Ag.
Nicholas Marmaritis - a converted heroon complete with marble ceiling. Caught the bus & felt our trip back on it was a real tour of much of the island.

Fred went back to work. Thera to do the site completely today. This left me free to browse around the town & buy some gifts & blouses for myself. Took the bus myself out to Akrotiri so I could picture the cliffs from that vantage point. Very much enjoyed the leisure & opportunity to poke around on my own. Hub had a good day. Went for a drink & baclava where we could sit & look at the small new volcano - Kaimeni.

Got packed up tonight ready to leave tomorrow evening after a full last day here. Will be very sorry to leave this hotel ~~so~~ so pleasantly planned, in such interesting surroundings.

22 Fira, cliffs, plain to east from bus window

Got up at 6.00 a.m. to catch the 7.00 a.m. bus to the excavations at Akrotiri. It was raining heavily & looked a poor day. The bus let us off at the village of Akrotiri so we had to walk in the wind & rain to the excavation site. Coffee first & then in we went where the roof over the remarkably well preserved houses gave welcome shelter. We were both very glad we had seen this excavation where so much of the houses is preserved. An endless wait till the bus came to take us back to Fira.

The afternoon was really miserable with pouring rain (it even rained down red dust from a cloud of Sahara origin they told us), the boat cruise cancelled & finally the plane from Athens cancelled too because visibility was so poor. We were so glad to get Mr. Tatakis's last room so we could get dry & warm!! So many people around this aft. were wet, cold, & miserable looking.

We started immediately getting Fred ready for his two day trip alone to Keshos tomorrow plus working on arrangements for transportation to Turkey next week.

Myriakis' plan of the Early X. basilica fairly easy to follow if you look under the present standing (later) apse for the outline of the original apse. Present apse is a little to the n. of the orig. apse. The two lines of bases & drums do mark the lines of nave colonnades of the basilica. The single base shown on plan at s.e. end of nave wall also in place. A few archit. frags left standing in apse & photographed left. Squares bases for cols. of n. nave col. & round ones for s. would have been wider because floor level came up to or above their upper surface. Cols. would all have been same size.

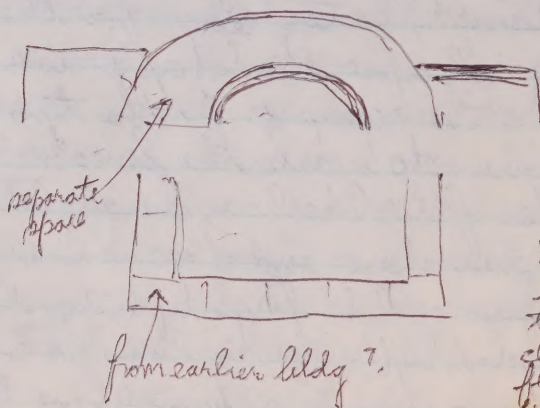

Ate our lunch near entrance to aqueduct which unfortunately was closed for restoration.

Climbed the acropolis of anc. Samos after lunch & had a good look at the anc. walls. Ed is just thrilled with all he is seeing! Made our own dinner & went to bed ready for an early start tomorrow.

Much enjoyed talking to Prof. Mary Burn, friends of the Thompsons, on the ferry. Considerable formality when landing in Kusadasi but finally we were off for Ephesus where we ate lunch looking at the Artemision covered with water. Spent the afternoon at the city site where I enjoyed the Church of Virgin Mary very much. It was a public holiday so a large group was in theatre for a concert with soldiers & keep all under control. Ed went up quite a bit of the line of walls on the mt. crest & loved it. Fred & I went to see cave of the 7 Sleepers. Some difficulty finding a hotel at Soki but finally got some funny rooms in the Ephes Palace where there was no water during the evening.

Hypa - Boulentierion

Today was the hottest so far - a real scorcher. I did the clean-up at our hotel in Aydın while Fred & Ed convalesced at the bank where they were given tea! Went grocery shopping next & were given most tea! Found Alabanda after a bit of road mix-up and enjoyed the theatre, studied the temple outline, and then spent quite a bit of time at the Bouleuterion which has some unanswered puzzles. How the newly transplanted tobacco can survive in this heat is a puzzle! Lunch eaten on the way again as we proceeded toward Lemoione. Everyone told us we were on the right road as it got worse & worse. Best part of that trip was going through long stretches in the upper parts of the road where there were endless purple flowers (guly, 1 kind of flower) evidently very good for honey & fudge from the hundreds of beehives. Had to give up on the road which was too bad. Went to Nysa instead where the huge theatre was very spectacular & the Bouleuterion very well preserved. Were delighted to get in at the Ephes ~~Tasman~~ where the rooms were so posh & they served us a wonderful dinner of cold drinks, salad, turkey ~~topittas~~ ~~steaks~~ & delicious dessert of 550 liras each. The prices & hospitality here are overwhelming!

82.14-3 Beleri - lunch by the Mausoleum
82.14-4 Klavos - T. of Apollo from S.W.

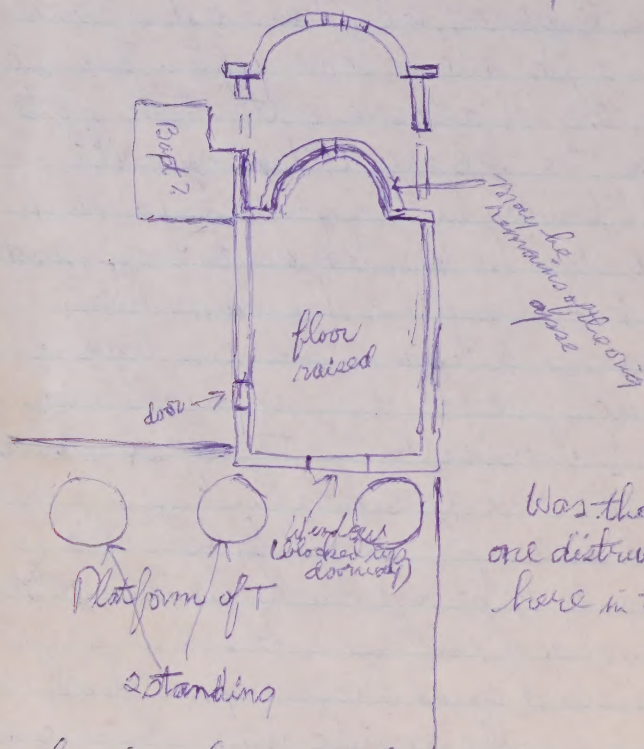

Did some shopping at Ephesus east entrance to get a dress for me & some gifts. Then we all met at the Magnesia gates took off to photograph the aqueduct. Next came the museum followed by tea given by a man who had a store he wanted us to see, mostly carpets but H. bought a bag from him. Drove then to Beleri where we had a lovely lunch beside the mausoleum. This time I climbed to the top of it which really made me feel great.

Long drive up almost to ^{Izmir} Ephesus & back down to Klavos which unfortunately still had a lot of water in it.

Fred made a great discovery in that there was a simple seaside place where we could stay the night instead of going back to Izmir. After climbing the acropolis of Notium we had a most graciously served dinner by the proprietor (fish!) and are now happily settled in our little white washed room.

Ed did the Asclepion while Fred & I shopped & went to the museum for help in finding Mamurthale. No help forthcoming so it must wait till next year.

We then set off for Aigai (eating lunch on the way) and found the road to be considerably improved. Fred led the way almost to the site then he branched off and Ed & I went on to Aigai. The guard Ahmet spotted us and was so helpful - got us water from the spring, made sure we saw everything and made sure I did not fall. On the way back he had me ride the donkey which I enjoyed immensely.

Then he invited us to tea at his house which was a lovely experience. His wife was so beautifully dressed & came in to the living-room (beautiful with carpets & cushions) to wish us this belated Eid. He had his two lovely looking little daughters. They agreed to my taking a couple of pictures in their delightful flowery courtyard (his wife would not pose) & rushed next door to a grandmother, a mother, & a very nice baby would be in the picture too. It was so heart-warming. Fred a new road home which was terribly long then went to town for dinner. Tonight we all three sleep in one room which I'm sure will be fine.

The people at our new hotel gave us such a nice send-off with breakfast & a bouquet of roses for me.

Our visit to Assos was really great. It has always been a favourite site with me & today added further acquaintance with it. Drove down the harbour road first to the land below the theatre then on down to the harbour where there is now a motel & the army. Hill quite steep, but Betsy made it up. We separated at the main gate, Ed to follow the walls & Fred to do the agora. Not much to see of the church in the gym but Fred took some details. The guide showed me around a good deal & then took us up to the town where we made our own way to the T of Athena on the top with a village boy to lead us. Examined the walls in main gate area & then had lunch kept then for Chryse to see the additional clearing of the temple platform which has taken place. How Betsy made it up & down that hill I will never know!

Decided to leave Troy till tomorrow but had a peek at the horse, chariot, & painted figs. on the tourist bridge after arranging to stay at the hotel on the highway. The people were more kindly Turks who prepared a wonderful dinner for us.

Our Turkish hosts were so kind when we left insisted we stop for tea when the car was loaded. Their "good byes" are certainly to be remembered.

The rain was pouring down but the three of us walked around Troy because Ed had to see it. Uncomfortable to be so wet afterward but it was worth it. It rained & rained hard to the Wardavilles where we were hurried onto a very small ferry which however made a fast smooth crossing. Lunch at Pagan was quite good but there were a lot of Greeks present so we were re-introduced to their music & prose. More & more rain but by the time we finally reached Kavalla it was over & we are settled in a nice hotel.

Seemed strange to be nearing the end of our trip - I guess we are all going to be very sad when this is over no matter how tired we are. Got some veg near the harbour which Edenys choosing ^{as} spinach, lettuce.
Very interesting to spot the Via Egnatia

We stopped at one place to wash the veg.
where a very nice Gk man invited me
to use the tap instead of the gushing pipe, Fred turned off to show us Amphipolis which Ed had not been able to find previously. A great deal of driving today. Crops looking wonderful in Macedonia but some damaged in Thessaly. Found the Vale of Tempe more spectacular than I remembered.

The last part of the day was the best
- new road about Thermopylae made the climb easy to drive. Between the top & Delphi the scenery was wonderful - ragged Gk. ridges, dark green slopes & soft valleys. Got a hotel in Delphi & got our last supper ready in our quite small room & view southward & to sea is lovely.

Early morning light on the mountain
s. of our hotel room was lovely. As usual Ed was very cheerful as he came in for our last breakfast.

Gota gift for Penelope after cashing at

The new exhibits from the B.C. finds are quite something but the crowds
in the museum were quite a nuisance.
Same thing on the pile where they swarmed everywhere except the cavea of the theatre which is now fenced off. Ate our lunch near the Castalian spring & then did the Marmaria where Fred & I were whistled off the tholos where we were looking at the interior.

Drive to Athens was more eventful but not very happy making as we ploughed our way through the Athens traffic to the School. Had Ed to one last supper in our room, followed by a jolly chat. He feels he is a great young student & enjoyed his company so much.
It is really sad such an enjoyable trip has come to an end.

"18 & 19 " Hts & then left stretches of walls as seen on w. side of Akrocorinth

Today was farewell to Athens!!
We went to Communion at St. Paul's and enjoyed it as usual. We feel quite at home there now and look forward to coming back.

On our return to Horing Arney we finished our packing just as Ed Ritchie turned up offering to help carry things to the car. Having his smiling presence and thoughtfulness with us has come to feel so natural we really regard him as an adopted son, certainly as a young man of whom we are very fond for whom we have great respect. It was very hard to say Goodbye to him before he saw us out of the CSC parking lot but I think there is the same feeling on both sides and we will hear from him in the future. Certainly being his guests (along with Judith) last night was the nicest send-off he could have given us - such a nice host and thoughtful at all times.

It was a very good idea to spend last night at the Isthmus Motel. After checking in we went to the top of Akrocorinth for great views of scenery & walls. This a.m. we went first to see the group excavating at Corinth & then to the hechaion Basilica. Took more pictures in the agora, including 2 churches & then had souvlaki & yoghurt for lunch. After reaching Patras we phoned Ron - everything seems to be in order & should be finished tomorrow. Long wait to get on the beautiful El Greco for Ancona but were off about midnight. This visit to Greece has ended on a dizzy height compared to some of the feelings I had at the beginning. I am really sorry it is over!!

Grado - the Baptistry + n. side of Basilica of S. Eufemia.

Cashed a travellers' cheque to start with then we shopped for food. Took the Autostrada past Vicenza, Padova + Venezia.

South of Udine we turned seaward to visit Aquileia, a Roman + Early X centre.
I did not know of premises, found very exciting. One of its attractions was the lovely roses in everyone's garden. M
There is quite a lot excavated of this important Roman frontier city and some fine remains of early X period. Visited the Basilica (present church built by Popo M in) with the wonderful mosaic floor of the 2. cent hall of Theodosius filling most of the floor. Mosaics were really terrific + it was lovely to be seeing early X remains in Italy again. There is so much more to see from IV + V A.D. than in Greece. Went next to Grado where their Baptistry + two early basilicas inspired wonder too. Obviously there is a lot to study of E. X period down there.
Hard to find the Agrip in Udine but we made it with help from 2 policemen.

June 4/82

82.17.5 Aquileia - part of documents
passing near the forum.

After leaving the Agyz we made another trip to Aquileia to do a bit of photography & see a bit more of the ancient city. Then we went to the Cipta degli Scavi where we were amazed & fascinated by the remains, especially the mosaics from the Roman house, the n. aula, the Basilica (removed when Pope basilica built?), substructure of ^{see H's of Aquileia} ~~campidoglio~~.
Visited the Palaeocristian museum
also where the mosaics from 2 basilicas plus other X items (many with tiny drawings on) were fascinating. There is much more to see here another time.

Headed n. then beyond Udine & n.e.
Friuli where the mts as we approached Torvisio were magnificent (sandstone being worn away in the neumas?). No trouble getting into Austria and immediately we felt in a diff.
world, geographically at least. Everywhere green of trees, mts (which grad. changed to ~~hills~~ ^{hills})
as we found ourselves on the other side of the mt.
range) fields of grain, hay drying in little cones.
Houses, farms, towns looked neat & prosperous, neatly everywhere wastell & fair. Found a gasthaus at Glisodorf to spend the night where we have a lovely clean pretty room.

June 5/82

Before leaving Gleisdorf we took a turn around the town & found some choos. to take to the Fedaks. Everyone we saw in Gleisdorf seemed friendly and happy & energetic even though we could not communicate. Same thing when we stopped for coffee at Fürstenfeld.

Also things changed when we left Austria at Heiligenkreuz & entered Hungary at Kábaljics. The barbed wire fence, guards with guns in 2 towers as you entered & left the frontier station area by means of a raised barrier, the long wait for the visa & return of passport & no one attempting to explain what was going on or make you feel welcome gave a sad & disquieting feeling. The feeling was not dispelled as we noticed how drab the little houses & towns were with almost no flowers, no attempt to make streets neat & cared-for & everyone looking grim & without much energy. Almost no places to stop for anything as we drove endlessly. Fortunately our feelings changed quite a bit as we reached Budapest & in our bewilderment in finding our address, first someone directed us in French & then when we were almost there but still confused someone made a diagram for us. We drove right there & found Mr. & Mrs. Fedak very glad to see us & with a lovely welcome all ready to make us feel at home.

We are being shown a great deal of Budapest. Tibor arrived & took us & his father to the National Historical Museum where we spent the whole a.m. studying their splendid exhibits of remains from their entire history. It is a superb teaching museum. Dr. Fedak left us part way through & walked home. Tibor took us for a drink at the old, wood-panelled "Apostles", ^{restaurant} with lots of atmosphere, before we went home for lunch. Mrs. Fedak had a very tasty, substantial lunch ready complete with chocolate iced cake. A siesta was welcome & then we went to the Castle Museum where there was a special exhibition of the silver work done by a famous Hungarian artist. There were lots of exhibits in the Castle Museum & outside we had a lovely view from the ramparts over the river from near the Matyas Statue & gate with the eagle emblem of Hungary. Went to a coffee house & then home.

Christina & Istvan came over to see us & we had a lovely chat with them over strawberries & ~~ice cream~~ cherries.

June 7/82

Tibor came again, at 9.30 a.m.
I ^{we} went first to the ~~Bellet Hill~~ the Citadella and looked out over the river above end of the Elizabeth bridge (further s.
than our vantage point ~~on~~ yesterday.
Went to outer Castle area & saw the Hilton & some of the old houses in the Castle area & Matyas Church & in its museum.
Bought a ring for Mary after walking along a lovely shaded walkway overlooking areas below. Drove next to Margit Island, a beautiful very large island in the Danube, where there are huge lawns & trees & the most beautiful rose beds imaginable. Tibor then took us home for lunch which he stayed for too - another of Mrs. Fedok's Hungarian specialties - a stuffed pepper & tomato sauce meat dish.

After a welcome piesta Fred & I went with Mr & Mrs. Fedok on the subway downtown to do our shopping. I visited several shops & got a lovely blouse for Elizabeth, one for me & a wallet for Mike.

June 8/82

Mrs. Tedak very kindly collected our washing & insisted on doing it for us.

Jibor arrived c. 8:30 a.m. & took us on a full day of sightseeing. Started up the Danube after crossing it & went first to Visograd where was ~~some~~ first Matias's palace (could not go to fort above). Went on to the Church at Esztergom (largest in area in Hungary, and seat of the Cardinal Archbishop of Hungary). Porch is patterned after Pantheon. Built in 2nd & 4 of XIX C.) There are Russian military camps nearby.

Czechoslovakia is across river at this point bridge not repaired since War II. Also visited Treasury of Cathedral which was very impressive. Next went to Museum of painting assembled by the Cardinals, especially before W.W.I. This was really amazing, especially the large no. of late XI on - XIII items.

Started back down Danube & not long before Visograd drove about 8 km. through forest into ~~forest~~ the hills to restaurant in State Park for a lovely quiet lunch which included venison. Returned to highway & drove to swimming pool at Visograd - a lovely large one where we had a great swim in 27°C or 80°F. water.

Drove through all of the State farm where the trees & hillsides are beautiful, and stopped to see the fascinating Pioneer Village (buildings now open where brought from n.e. Hungary after a severe flood had ruined the area,

Went on into Szegendre where we visited 2 art exhibitions - first the fascinating huge collection of pottery, sculpture, pictures etc of Kovács Margit (her pieces were enchanting & frequently very original & thought provoking renderings of a subject)
- second, the collection of paintings of the modern artist Czobor. Took a little walk around the town to see the charming houses & the view of the Danube and then drove back toward Budapest and Tibor's home on the n.w. outskirts.

We had a wonderful visit with them. Their two children are so interesting and we had such a good time chatting over a good dinner. Their efforts to learn English have been a real inspiration to me. Took a taxi home & found Mr. Huecke was phoning to give us directions for the road to Munich.

June 9/82
82.17-6 Budapest - Dr. & Mrs. Fedak

I was very sad indeed to say goodbye to Dr. & Mrs. Fedak (Janos & ~~Anna~~) who have given us a wonderful welcome & tremendous visit and certainly demonstrated that speaking the same language is not the only way to communicate. They hated to say goodbye too!

Then they followed a terribly long day of autolahn driving with quantities of trucks to pass or pass us. Only one hour needed to pass the Hungarian border this time & no trouble at all crossing into Germany where there seemed to be no border at all. After eleven hours we reached the hueckes where I felt so ill from all the driving it was hard to be very bright. Ron's telegram said "Transaction Completed"!!!

Fred & Hans went to the airport to arrange for our trip to Berlin while I had a nice relaxing a.m. in the garden looking after the mail. Had a nice snooze in the afternoon & then the hueckes took us out to supper in a village nearby. Very nice to see some more of the countryside but I was very upset when the conversation disclosed the fact Fred might be expected to be Grad. Sec. & Assoc. Chairman again. If was a real bomb shell & would mean a terrible set-back to his research & our team plans!

Today we went to the Glyptothek museum which is wonderful. Guide & arrangements couldn't be better. Stayed for lunch & did it thoroughly. On the plane to West Berlin Fred said he intends to communicate the fact he is not going to administrate in the dept. again. Sounds more hopeful so let's hope. Mr. Peschlow met us at the airport & took us to our Pensione which is run by a nice motherly soul much like Mamie Jones.

Our day in West & East Berlin turned out extremely well. Took a cab first to American Express to change ^{money} into W. Germ. marks. There we met some people who had just been to the Pergamon Museum in E. Berlin so they gave us their subway map and explained how simple it was to get on the subway outside, go the right way on the subway & get out at Friedrichstraße, the one subway stop in E. Berlin. So we went through the border crossing formalities there & had no complaints - we were treated very courteously & saw no regrettable incidents. However we may well have been seeing the best face which is presented to foreign visitors. Outside however the effects of the ~~entire~~ whole system hit us - almost dead silence & you soon started to speak in hushed tones too. The Museum was a tremendous collection of architectural pieces from major sites as my list shows.

Got back to W. Berlin O.K. & had supper then taxi to our pensione before going to the garden party (roast sucking pig) given by Mr. Buchner at the Germ. Archaeol. Institute. Somehow his welcome to me as well as Fred was what I needed & appreciated. The tour of the (her) garden by Mrs. Basche was a lovely climax before we went back to the Pensione

82.17.10 Munich - ~~between~~ Propylaea at back of the Königs-Platz

Were up early at our pensione & get the flight back to Munich. Had a rest, then went to the museum below.

Museum visited today was the Antikensammlungen to the left as you enter the Königs-Platz. The vase collection was marvellous beyond description & the guide book was first rate giving instruction in the dev. of Greek vase painting as it described the material of each room & singled out particular items. This collection took up the entire main floor. The floor below had gold jewellery of unimaginable quantity & beauty. It was incredible. Many other wonderful groups of objects such as Hellenistic figurines from Boeotia. Upper floor had urns from Perugia, bronzes, paintings of sites before excavation & a few other things.

Hans & Stepha then took us home for supper at which the kids joined us. Then Hans & Susan took us on a tour of Munich which included the cathedral, public squares, and ended at the Hofbräuhaus
- where the idea was to drink as much beer as possible and sample German food
- run by city govt. There was a very good band playing familiar pieces which made the best contribution to the feeling of jollity in my view.

These 3 likely no good because film setting not changed from slow film - same for preceding still on June 13

This was the a.m. the car was to be serviced so Fred & Hans looked after that while I packed up. Susan packed us a lunch & also had a noon meal ready for us to eat before we left. They have looked after us so very well, anticipated all our needs, and shown us around as well as several interesting places. Hans led us to the autobahn out of Munich which took us past Augsburg, Ulm, Stuttgart, Karlsruhe ^{after} which we went up to Bruchsal & the Goldenes Hammer a lovely family hotel for the night. We did have a lovely stop at Ulm to see the Cathedral & the picturesque town square. Germany is beautiful like Austria with neat towns & orderly farms

The first Church of our Saviour consecrated in 1856 was destroyed by incendiary bombs in 1944.

After leaving Bruchsal we headed n.
but bypassed Mannheim + Heidelberg
by going past Ludwigshafen, north a bit, on to 6 E12, past Kaiserslautern, then on 67 to Trier where we spent considerable time viewing the Porta Nigra, the Basilica, the Thermes, the Museum & the very attractive town square. Headed toward the French border then along the Moselle where we saw miles of the famous vineyards. Crossed the border at Perl - Sierck - les - Bains where there were no problems but no Wechsel either. Eventually got supper at a service centre on the autoroute & later in Verdun found the Pergola restaurant hotel where we have a fine living room, though the bldg. is old, for a good night's sleep.

remains of the church.

Probably made our last hotel breakfast as we prepared to leave the Pergola Hotel at Verdun. Both here & at the groc. stores across the street the courteous crisp manner of speaking by the French very evident and pleasant to hear.

Soon arrived at Rheims (in a drizzle) where I had a second chance to see this wonderful bldg. Rest of the day was from behind choir right down whole length to the two rose windows at front of the facade. Reached soon after at a highway P & then a very nice visit at Notre Dame in Raon - the simple early type of Gothic church.

Took the fastest route from here into Paris & to my great astonishment got on & off the periphere great the right places, onto Jean Jaures and without too many mistakes to our hotel, the Navarin. Very nice to have lit and it really is a wonderful feeling to realize we have accomplished so much since Feb. 1 & in 16000 km. without serious mishaps.

First thing we did after our French breakfast was to walk to the Gare du Nord to buy our train & ferry tickets to England. Decided to go Dieppe to Newhaven which means leaving from the St. Lazare station. Going downstairs to look for a W.C. ran into a group of youths chasing another chap whom they sprayed with something (mace?) which made the air unbreathable. Rather a nasty experience, so had a coffee & apple pie snack to restore our nerves. Went back to the hotel to feed the metre where we have been very lucky in being able to leave Betsy. Made a trip to the Isle de France to buy Jon's birthday book & eat lunch before returning to feed the ~~metre~~. Next a sleep & a last feeding. Found a new place for ~~lunch~~ dinner which was really poor - more of a bar where a waitress was giving a great harangue.

Finished arranging our luggage so we could take the 3 suitcases + big blue dower pack to St. Lazare station & check them on tomorrow's train. Once more I acted as navigator through Paris streets & we found a place to park. Pretty difficult handling the luggage from there but we did manage & left it safely checked before we found our way to Renault on Jean Gaurès to turn in Pétay. Procedure was very simple but we had quite a feeling of nostalgia as we said goodbye to her. We got lunch outside the Louvre then had a short visit in it. I took myself over to the Isle to see the Saint Chappel + they met back in front of Notre Dame. Got the letter to Robert Welsh & some cards mailed in the Hotel de Ville + then had a lovely snack across the street. Found a really nice place near our hotel the Navarin for our last dinner in France.

Fred's 60th birthday!! We had a very nice day travelling from Paris to London. Nice send-off from the Hotel Navarin with invitations to come back. Taxi to St. Lazare station & were in good time to board the very nice train. Had a very nice pizza lunch as we rolled along past Rouen through the rolling terrain with its many coes. Seemed to have a lot of luggage still to carry with us but got onto the ferry all right at Dieppe. It was fascinating to see this town with its interesting narrow bldgs. of diff. colours & detail (Paris ones seem to be all the same) along the narrow streets. Got a picture of the beaches & pondered their historical significance (area now a park). Crossing was a bit rough, very pleasant to land at Newhaven & go by train through "England's green & pleasant land". Taxi to our B&B at Dover St - rather a small room but too tired to think about it.

82.17.37 ^{pt.} London St. Pancras station.

It was lovely to get a real English breakfast again but we decided to move from this room which is too small, too noisy & too far from the W.C. First of all we went to Euston St. & then St. Pancras to get our train tickets for St. Albans tomorrow. Then found a nice hotel which gives breakfast even closer to the B.M. & decided we would treat ourselves to its greater comfort & space on our return from York. Had to study our luggage situation carefully because there may be a R.R. strike the day we return from York. So decided we would have to return from York by coach, bought the tickets & then stowed our extra luggage with them. Felt very relieved to have all our problems settled so enjoyed supper at the 'Colonel's'. Have decided London's streets much more interesting than those of Paris because they have much greater variety in colour, design & height & anything else you can think of.

June 21/82

Were first at the table for breakfast so we could leave our B & B at Dover St. early to go by taxi to St. Pancras Station to get an early fast train to St. Albans. Taxi to ~~Arthur~~ Godfrey Davis to pick up our rented car. Got onto the main highway for the north M1 quite easily but the driving for the first while was quite nerve wracking between driving on the left side of the road, the roundabouts & other ^{made up side trips & junctions} which we thought beautiful unfamiliar aspects. However we reached York about 7.30 p.m. with Mary's good map to help us at the last. On landing at our B. & B. rushed out for some supper.

Afterwards Mary, Penelope and Jon all gathered in our room & we had a great old chat. Those three had just returned from a lovely trip in Scotland which included Skye & Sona. Mary had gone by a very cold rain to meet them at Inverness after J. & P. had returned from the Orkneys. Mary was very bubbly - Pen. not quite so much so.

June 22/82
82-18-1 F York - Jon, Fred & Penelope outside
GM our B & B

Very nice to have breakfast with Jon & Penelope at our B & B. "Greystones". Yesterday's rain continued but anyway J.P., Fred & I went for a walk after J.P. had shown us all their clothing & wool purchases & packed up. Jon certainly knows his way around York & took us to St. Williams College (where poorer priests ^{lived}) - very interesting wooden ceiling construction & other old items - had a nice coffee stop there too. Next went to Holy Trinity Church which looked really old - pews, uneven floor etc - Saw what remains of a XII Norman Church. Then met Mary at her's where we all had a very nice lunch & visit. Said "Goodbye" to Jon & Penelope & then drove with Mary out to the country to visit Barningbrough Hall - a lovely old English home (lots of paintings on loan there at present) with a delightful commentary & explain how some aspects of running the house James & his parents were there too & afterwards we were invited to the little house they have rented in another town where Mary & James prepared us a lovely supper.

82.18-2 ~~B~~ Country home in Stirling region

Mary joined us this a.m. for our trip to Scotland and did the navigating as we left York by H.W. 59 & got onto Hwy 1 for the north, bypassed Newcastle, took 696 to the borders of Scotland, then 68 & 7 to Edinburgh which we bypassed. Proceeded next by 9 & M 60 to Stirling & beyond to the region of Dumfries & Home where Mary knew of a very nice B. & B. with a very welcoming Mrs. Bennet with a very Scotch voice. Found a nice hotel with pub ^{nearby} where we were just in time to have supper.

This was a day full of English countryside, then Scottish hills with lots of sheep, Scottish towns of rather severe stone constructed houses & always narrow winding roads & beautiful flowers (quantities of roses) in everyone's garden.

now the chapel & same. of present church hurried through our breakfast so we would be ⁱⁿ time (9.30 a.m.) for the pre-arranged visit with the Stirling-Airds.
We were very near their village of Plumlane
& the map showing road to the house Hippenross was very helpful. The fact it was sent ^{out} Lady Margaret Stirling-Aird was puzzling until Peter Stirling-Aird explained (after greeting us very warmly) that she was his second wife, the daughter of the Earl of Glasgow. They were both most kindly & gracious during our visit & Peter has quite a sense of humour. Their home (belonged to Peter's first wife Envelope Stirling?) was a beautiful country place and we had a delightful relaxing visit talking about relatives in common & looking at pictures. Peter has the famous picture of Crime Scarfe! (Mrs. William Suttaby).
Left c. 11.30 a.m. & retraced our route, except for taking 88 s.e. of Edinburgh, as far as Newcastle which we skirted in order to see the very old Saxon church at Jarrow (St. Paul's) built in 681 - a real experience. Drove as far as Durham for the night where we have a poorer class B & B w/ very narrow stairs. The cathedral looks splendid & we saw a lot of the town on our way to supper.

Spent the a.m. visiting & studying Durham Cathedral which we found fascinating - see booklets which we used to identify each part. It is built incredibly close to the river - no wonder it was in danger of sliding in - other wise position superb aesthetically & strategically. Bought some pastries for lunch & then headed back to our car outside the B.B. to find our gas had been siphoned! Left the (M) soon after Durham & wiggled our way by 689 & 171 over to Whitley on the coast to see the ruined abby. View from nearly over the old ~~chapel~~ ^{grave} yard to the town beyond & the waves on the beach below was quite awe inspiring. So was the abby whose ruins gave you a wonderful chance to really see the individual elements of a Gothic structure. I really felt spellbound here. This was St. Hilda's Abby.

Afterwards drove across the moors (which also were hidden by thick fog) through Pickering & Malton & into York.

This was the evening Mary was taking us James to a Medieval Evening which had lovely music played on ancient instruments, copies, costumes, jokes & suitable refreshments. Seemed too bad to be saying "Goodbye" to James.

This a.m. was devoted to shopping and after a great deal of effort we got a shirt for Trips & a 3 piece suit for me. Spun to visit the lovely fascinating shops & streets in York. I do wish there were more time for it.

More pastures for lunch as we set off for Fountains Abby with Mary navigating. This was a very large abby complex originally with a great variety of bldgs. The location in a lovely green glade with planned gardens etc, nearby was very lovely but I did not find the ruined ~~church~~ ^{abby} as attractive as Whithy. Nice supper of chili at Mary's in the evening.

Sun. June 27/82

Met Mary at the Minster where we 3 found the Ordination Service for 1 deaconess & several deacons & priests a great inspiration & joy. Lunch in our room & then we should off to see Castle Howard in the country where the family still occupy part of their country mansion. Part is open to the public. Didn't think it as attractive as Berrington - too ornate & many of the fabrics quite dilapidated - but it was impressive & they had a lovely big rose garden. Mary's sponsors, the Capetons, had us to dinner at their home which was very nice - children very interesting with their Yorkshire accents.

Drove out to Mary's, so we could leave our luggage there, before we returned the car to Gidrey Harris in town. Remainder of the a.m. was for the "Vikings in York" show which is a splendid exhibition at present. It was splendidly put together, with lots of material exhibited and splendid historical narrative - am beginning to feel I understand English history a little better. Mr. Carlton picked us up near the Minster & took all 3 of us to the Rotary luncheon where Mary was to give one of her speeches on Canada. It was the first time we had heard her; our thrill was very real at seeing her selection of pictures of our country & hearing how well she explained what being a Canadian means. Mr. Carlton took us back to Mary's where we had a chance to see her cameras, have tea & then taxi in to our coach for London. We certainly hated to leave Mary standing there in the rain in her fascinating ^{town} which we have not seen enough of, but it seems we must always go on to the next stage of life. Very late getting to our Peckham Hotel in London as we were stopped twice by police looking for the Yorkshire murderer & our boss had to be replaced by a new one as steering was faulty.

Slept as late as we could, then went down to the quite large dining-room for breakfast. Phoned Mary then walked to Victoria Station. It was lovely to walk along some of London's famous streets, particularly around Trafalgar Square, under Admiralty Arch, up the Mall stopping to see some of the gardens in St. James Park. Realizing something was about to happen at Buckingham Palace we hustled over to a good position where I got a wonderful view as the Guards left the palace grounds after Changing the Guard. Continued on our way to Victoria where we retrieved our luggage, returned to the hotel & had a good rest.

Wed. June 30/82

Today I went to St. Mary le Bow alone to set in motion enquiries about the Langtons, Pattisons & Suttalls via the archivist who told me alot about the church & its crypt below. Heard the Bow Bells ring, visited St. Paul's then went back to Amen Corner to take a last picture inside the Court. I certainly wondered about my relatives, their place of business, the WW II and alot of things as I looked about

Tues. July 1/82

Fred & I walked miles today to find out what we could about the Gutteray publishing business. Took the underground to the St. Catherine's House near Somerset House. Were directed to the Registry of Companies at 51 City Rd so we walked to St. Paul's next where we got slides & had lunch. Then walked again to City Rd. found they kept only ^{recent} records so we had to have a long tube ride to the Public Records Office near New Gardens. It seems the Co. went out of operation in 1890 so that was that but no info pertaining to the years ~~before~~ before Francis Arthur owned it alone. See notes taken during visit. In the evening we had millions of laughs at the play "No Sex Please, We're British".

July 2/82

Today map for the BUM after restoring our finances. Saw the Inscription & Architecture Rooms, had lunch there then got a temporary library card & was introduced to the rather overwhelming Reading Room. Had a good time with Jochnaus on haconia & Cockereell on Bassal. Quire great tonight - we seem to be trying them all!!

Most of the day at the B.U.M. today - Cochrell before & after lunch and then I really got immersed in J. J. Wood's account of his excavations at Ephesus. What an exciting story! lovely Italian dinner tonight.

July 4/82

We went to the R.C. Westminster
Cathedral today expecting a Latin Mass.
Instead it was an induction service for deacons - very interesting to compare with the induction at York last week esp. the emphasis on celibacy. Last visit to the B.U.M., took my last three pictures and had a last lovely chat with Mary who had sent us a splendid letter complete with wrench, to the hotel.

Travel Observations & Directives from J.E.W.

- 1982 travels further confirmed differences between J.E.W. & J.E.W. as traveller and researcher.
- eg. ① J.E.W. dislikes Athens so much he wants to get away from it as much as possible. J.E.W. wants to spend time there for ^{various} reasons.
- ② J.E.W.'s inclination is to drive & explore new territory all the time if possible - feel ^{very} ~~stuffy~~ ^{stuffy}.
- ③ Concentrating so fully on the above likely to make J.E.W. stay within very confined, planning limits re food, social contacts, ^{itineraries} non-scheduled outings i.e. ~~variety~~ ^{variety} along the way not important.
- ④ Since J.E.W. has planned numerous trips along these lines and carried out the majority of them alone, there is strong tendency for him to still make all the decisions - team planning not yet well developed.

Therefore the following is advisable:-

- ① Pay close attention to suggestions made by J.E.W. so travel itineraries will be jointly planned & reasonable in length.
- ② It has been agreed that half time in Athens, half time away is fair. If J.E.W. wants more it should be without J.E.W.; & in any case it is a good idea if occasionally J.E.W. does travel alone & so can do everything his way.
- ③ J.E.W. wants time in Athens to use the library, improve her Greek, know the city, have social contacts,

- ④ Going separate ways part of the time good for J. E. W.'s independence + feeling of accomplishment + confidence. It does not come if she is always in his shadow. If long stretches together are unavoidable more assertiveness is vital.

Don't try to carry so much luggage with us another time. We had far too much weight to handle by ourselves in '82.

Some belongings must move separately from us somehow. Making visiting excursions away from home base (Athens?) shorter would ^{be} one way of assuring that there was less luggage that had to travel with us.

should then be replanned in order to get back on schedule by eliminating stops along the way or shortening time in Rome.

Before leaving Rome, the planner should consider the possibility of a first night in Rome - Rome being a very large city and Naples being a medium sized city (the distance between Rome and Naples is about 100 miles).

2. The first night in Rome should be 350 hours as the first night in Rome should be a maximum of 350 hours. The first night in Rome should be a maximum of 350 hours.

3. The planner should find a destination
within the limits of the daily limit
of 350 hours. If the daily limit
of 350 hours is not possible, the planner
should find a destination within the limits
of the daily limit of 350 hours. If the daily limit of 350 hours is not possible, the planner
should find a destination within the limits
of the daily limit of 350 hours. If the daily limit of 350 hours is not possible, the planner
should find a destination within the limits
of the daily limit of 350 hours.

4. The planner should find a destination
within the limits of the daily limit
of 350 hours is not possible, the planner
should find a destination within the limits

Directives for Future Trips to Europe

- J.E.W.

Before leaving Canada

- (a) Decide no. of days between car pick-up & first major Graeco-Roman destination (e.g. Rome, Naples, ~~Ancona~~ or Brindisi for Adriatic crossing)
- (b) Multiply no. of days by 350 kms.
- (c) The resulting fig. should be maximum no. of kms. travelled between car-pick & major destination.
- (d) Plan itinerary to first destination within this overall limit, and each day within the daily limit of 350 kms. NB If using expressway 400 kms. would be feasible provided that a 2-2½ hr. visit to some site off the highway came part way through the day, or if allowance was made for a 1 hr. lunch stop & 2 half hour breaks. However the daily average & grand total of kms. should remain within the limits stated above.
- (e) Maximum driving time on any one day should not exceed 5 hrs. on expressways or 6 hrs. on non-expressways, & should end before dark in winter

& no later than seven p.m. in summer.

f) Consequently itineraries that include 4-5 hrs. of visiting would have to be planned with a sharply reduced travel distance — probably not more than 150-225 kms depending on type of rd. Total elapsed time for the day (visit + lunch + driving including breaks) should not exceed nine hours, and should terminate in fall & winter before dusk. The nine hrs. means getting into the car after ~~one~~ the night's stop to getting out at the next ~~one~~ stop.

g) Advance reservations, eq at Agyps, should be made according to the above limits of distance & total daily elapsed time. If travel experience before the first advance reservation involves an excessive drive to the reservation point during that particular day, (i.e. a total elapsed time of ^{more than} 7 hrs., or more than 6 hrs. actual driving time on express ways & 7 hrs on non-expressways), we should stop sooner than the reservation point & phone ahead to cancel reservation. The remainder of the itinerary to the major destination

Information

Szöjöz le (la) bienvenu(e)!

Nous vous souhaitons un bon et agréable séjour.

Pour vous faciliter de quitter le pays, voilà, brièvement, les plus importantes informations sur les règlements douaniers et sur les restriction de devises.

Voyage de sortie

En règle générale, l'exportation des objets est soumise à une autorisation spéciale; toutefois, les marchandises et objets de valeur suivants peuvent être réexportés sans autorisation:

— Objets destinés à l'usage personnel

Vos objets destinés à votre usage personnel et vos objets de valeur que vous avez introduits en Hongrie en franchise peuvent être, bien sûr, réexportés sans en demander permission. Vous pouvez également avoir des denrées alimentaires à consommer en l'état pendant le voyage, répondant au besoin personnel par jour, mais au maximum en une quantité suffisant pour 3 jours. Cette quantité ne doit cependant contenir qu'un kg d'espèces de viandes (un demi kg par espèces, au maximum). 500 cigarettes ou 50 cigares ou 500 grammes de tabac ainsi que 5 litres de vin et 2 litres d'autres spiritueux peuvent être sortis du pays par les voyageurs ayant, bien sûr, plus de 16 ans.

Les personnes étrangères séjournant en Hongrie moins de 24 heures n'ont pas le droit de sortir des denrées alimentaires achetées en Hongrie, à l'exception de celles destinées à consommer en l'état et ayant une valeur moins de 100,— Forints. Les personnes voyageant en voiture ne peuvent sortir de l'essence que dans le „tank” incorporé de la voiture. Il est interdit d'exporter de l'essence dans des bidons ou dans des „tanks” supplémentaires.

— Objets achetés ou reçus en cadeau

Il est permis d'exporter des objets achetés ou reçus en cadeau en Hongrie représentant un souvenir spécialement hongrois (objets de l'art folklorique, par exemple) dont la valeur globale ne dépasse pas 3000,— Forints. Dans cette limite-valeur, vous pouvez avoir un ou plusieurs cadeaux dont la valeur globale ne dépasse pas 1000,— Forints n'ayant pas de caractère spécialement hongrois (cadeaux communs), à l'exception des marchandises suivantes: de l'or, du platine, de l'argent et leurs produits dérivés, objets quelconques en quantité „commerciale”, objets d'art de valeur historique, des timbres-postes, des médicaments ainsi que du salami, des saucisses, de la viande crue, de la viande fumée, du lard fumé, du lard gras, de la graisse, de l'huile alimentaire, du sucre, de la farine, du café, du cacao, du paprika moulu, du poivre en grains ou moulu, des tapis et des chaussures d'enfants (pointure: jusqu'à 38 chez les garçons, et jusqu'à 34 chez les jeunes filles), les produits à laver et à rincer.

Dans le cas d'une seule marchandise ayant une valeur plus élevée que la limite-valeur, la franchise établie sur la limite-valeur par personne ne peut pas être combinée avec celle d'autres personnes, même si ces personnes sont les membres de la même famille.

Les objets achetés dans les magasins INTERTOURIST peuvent être exportés sans permission spéciale. Dans ce cas, il faut certifier l'achat par la facture du magasin.

Il est permis d'exporter sans licence les objets — à l'exception des objets faits de métaux précieux, des timbres-postes et des objets d'art de valeur historique — achetés contre Forints provenant du change des devises convertibles ou achetés avec cartes de crédit émises par des firmes étrangères. Prière de garder, dans ce cas, la facture d'achat et le certificat confirmant le change effectué (ou le coupon de la carte de crédit) parce qu'à la sortie du pays, ils doivent être présentés à la douane.

Les objets d'art (tels que tableaux, peintures, sculptures et autres objets d'antiquité) ne peuvent être exportés qu'avec une permission spéciale. Toutefois, dans le cas des objets d'art achetés dans les magasins INTERTOURIST, la facture d'achat tient lieu de licence d'exportation.

— Instruments de paiement et objets de valeur

L'importation des devises étrangères n'est pas limitée.

Toutefois, nous vous attirons l'attention au fait que les voyageurs venant des pays non membres du COMECON doivent demander, lors du contrôle douanier à la frontière hongroise, une „Attestation d'importation de valeurs” dans le cas où ils ont du léva bulgare, de la couronne tchécoslovaque, du zloty polonais, du tougrik mongol, de la marque de la RDA, du lei roumain ou du rouble soviétique.

Votre attention est également attirée à ce que ces voyageurs ne peuvent sortir du pays des devises convertibles dépassant le montant équivalant à 200,— $ US que dans le cas où ils en tiennent une „Attestation d'importation de valeurs” délivrée, lors de l'entrée en Hongrie, par les autorités douanières.

Tout ce qui vient d'être mentionné ci-dessus vaut également pour les autres valeurs de devises (pièces d'or, de l'or fin, papier-valeurs, etc.). Il n'est cependant pas nécessaire d'avoir une „Attestation” pour sortir du pays des chèques ou des lettres de changes dont l'émetteur, le titulaire et le bénéficiaire sont des personnes étrangères.

Les personnes étrangères ont le droit d'importer et de sortir, sans permission, 100,— Forints par personne, mais exclusivement en pièces (pas de billets!).

Voyage de transit

Si vous êtes en transit en Hongrie, vous pouvez, une fois par année civile, lors de votre première entrée, faire une déclaration orale dans la mesure où la valeur globale des marchandises importées par vous ne dépasse pas 5000,— Forints et que leur quantité ne dépasse pas la quantité admissible en franchise, par espèce de marchandises.

Les voyageurs en transit ont également le droit d'exporter des souvenirs ne dépassant pas la valeur globale de 3000,— Forints (voir la 1^e page). Les marchandises ayant une valeur plus élevée et destinées à être transitées, il est recommandé de les déclarer au bureau de douane d'entrée.

Les marchandises importées lors du deuxième voyage ou lors des voyages suivants, ainsi que celles qui ont une valeur dépassant 5000,— Forints (selon les prix en pratique en Hongrie) et celles en quantité „commerciale” ne peuvent être transitées que contre dépôt d'une caution ou en les expédiant, pour traverser la Hongrie, par une entreprise de transport. Vous devez donc présenter les marchandises destinées à être transitées au bureau de douane et en faire une déclaration écrite.

Quant au transit des instruments de payment, voir les dispositions concernant l'exportation de ces instruments

parents ou amis hongrois, mais la valeur de ces cadeaux ne doit pas dépasser 5000,— Forints (selon les prix en pratique en Hongrie). Dans ce cas, vous pouvez faire une déclaration orale. Mais dans le cas où votre entrée en Hongrie n'est plus la première dans l'année civile considérée ou que la valeur et/ou la quantité des marchandises importées par vous dépasse la valeur et/ou la quantité admissible en franchise, vous devez faire une déclaration écrite en énumérant un à un tout ce que vous avez apporté.

Les ressortissants étrangers ne peuvent vendre ou offrir en cadeau leurs objets destinés à leur propre usage personnel importés en Hongrie qu'après avoir payé les droits de douane.

Le change des devises étrangères peut être effectué exclusivement par des organes habilités à acheter et à vendre des devises. Le change par d'autres personnes est strictement interdit.

L'infraction aux règlements douaniers et aux règlements sur les devises entraînera des conséquences légales.

Nous espérons que cette brève information a répondu à toutes vos questions. Si, toutefois, vous avez encore des problèmes adressez-vous à n'importe quel service des douanes ou bureau de voyage du pays qui sera toujours à votre disposition.

des Douanes

Clarification of Place Names

Second Trip

Kerna = Mefi (the mills)

Kynouria (dog's tail) - Kerna to Agios Andreas

In it are plains of A. And. & Astros which make up Plain of Thyrea. Anc. town Thyrea at Helleniko (s.w. of Astros & is only a place with ruins). Did not exist in Paus. time

Kynourian Mesogëia - name given by Pappachatzis to the mid region west of Astros Plain i.e.

Ag. Ioannis & Ag. Petros

Frozier's Arachova is now known as Kariés

Eva is near Monastery of Loukou which is site of the Polemokratiön (related to Asclepius)

2 Heris - site unknown but somewhere in Thyreatic Pl

3 Anthous^(at house) - placed at Paralia of Agios Andreas ^{on hill} of Nesi
These were 3 villages of Thyreatis in Paus. day

Brasie either at Paralia of Siros ^{above mod} or at Plaka ^{of hegnidi}

Rastro of Paralia Siros must be ancient Tyros Cypri remain around top of hill we circled. T. Apollo Tyrtæos found (Ag. Ioannis. Prop. Elias above mod. Thyrea).

Hermes - between Ag. Petros & Kariés where boundaries of Argos, Igea & Laconia meet.

Sellasia (modern) is the former Vrouliá (Frozier's Vourliá)

Sellasia (ancient) is the Hill of Constantinos on other (east) side of main road but west of the Venous & N. of turnoff for Bresthenes

Thomax - either at Kokkinorachi or in olive orchards & fields w. of main
rd. 11 km. n. of Sparta (see BSA 1960)

Coryae - Thomaios placed anc. Coryae num.
n. of modern town & identified the Coryae of Fraser & Hering, west of Bourbonia, as the Arcadian city
Iasos - see Papp's map Vol II p 333 fig 356

Amyclae or Amyclēs ^(modern) is Fraser's Sklavachori
_{anc. Amyclae is at least of mod Amyclēs}

Therapne = the Menelaion

Brookae (anc.) was west of quarries at or near Alai Bay now known as Pharos

Brookēs (mod) is Fraser's Neutsova & is not ancient site

~~Aegae~~ Egies (mod village on highway) is
ca. 2 km east of ridge of anc. Aigiai.
A long low ridge on l. bank of Bardounia River is the site of anc. Aigiai. Acc. to village Linni is a marsh not a village

Belonina - region s. & w. of Mt. Chelmos (Atlenacion?) around the western headwaters of the Eurotas

Pellana (modern) is Fraser's Kalivia of Giorgitsi - has archaic spring on hill below may be anc. Aigys, or else Karystos Pellana (ancient) was by springs east of Eurotas below Pioniditox. Tivari is the name of the spring at the foot of the 2 peaked hill w. of

mod. Sellasia (Vrouliada Vourlia). ~~Thian~~ Pellana may have been located at spring of Vivari or between Vivari & the big gushing one we saw.

Geronthrae - mod Geraki - acropolis was in area at top of the hill of pres. town with T. of Apollo.

T. of Ares in grove in the plain and also the agora & springs. Note Byz churches at lower levels of town incorp. anc. blocks Palaea - on a hill ^{mod.} to s. w. of Epidaure. Is Palaea the same as Pleia of Hivy?

Marion - to s. of ^{mod.} Mari. Said to be restes in valley at bottom. Still has spectacular supply of water.

Glyppia - thought to be n. of Kosmas in region of Ag. Basilikos, actually between Ag. Basilikos & Platanaki (castro, Frankish tower, high, & churchlets of Wormition - Palais Parayia) Persian wanted to put Glyppia at Kosmas or Kremasti ~~because~~ Frazer II p. 382

Selinus - heake placed this at Kosmas (Frazer II 382), but this is much too far from Geronthrae.
Pappachatsis places it n. w. of Geraki near the rd. to Palythra & Agriani. The vicinity of Ag. Anargyri would also fit.

Iklos - (modern) is a little above the mouth of the Eurotas, is not an anc. settlement.

Iklos (ancient-region) - included perhaps all the alluvial plain of the Eurotas, since the word means a marsh.

Iklos (ancient-city) - was on eastern edge of plain, once an imp. seaport but had declined to a village in time of Strabo & was deserted in time of Pausanias. Most probable location was near Kato Glykourisi (formerly Vezani~~a~~, the Bizani of Fraser III p380 based on the tr. survey)

Acirae - on the shore at the little fishing port & beach of Kokkinio or Kokkinia below Glykourisi. S. of Kokk. the port of Elea (or Eliá) is prob. the ancient Biandina or Biandina mentioned by geographer Ptolemy between Acirae & Asopos (Plitra).

Asopos (modern) was formerly Hondaviámiha Asopos (anc.) was at mod. Plitra which has a very protected harbour.

Hyperteleton - 50 stades from ^{Asopos} (Paus.)
S. of mod. Phiniki (~~Phiniki~~), & (small finds & inscriptions)

Cape Xyli - probably had Sanc. of Athena on it somewhere. "City of the Paracyparissian"

Achaean's must have been on the n. side of the neck across from Asopos (anc.)

If Paus. actually went inland to Hypertelestes, above Phinihi, he may have crossed over to the valley s. of the Phinihi ridge and followed it down to the coast n.w. of Monemias. The anc. rd. must then have crossed the coastal plain of Elikia & perhaps have kept close to the coast all the way to the Unygnathos Isthmus (now submerged) & peninsula (now Elaphónisi)

Boeae - located approx. on 2 hills of Neapolis
The whole gulf is very well sheltered from all but s. & s.w. winds. Absolutely calm the day of our visit despite stormy surf.
~~weather elsewhere~~ on east coast at Monemvasia. This confirms Frazer's remarks about ships sheltering there when it was stormy off Cape Malea

Itis - only 1 km from Boeae but direction ^{fr. Boeae} not clear

Sida - on e. coast beyond Cape Malea near Belanidea

Aphrodisias - may have been Archangelos

Nymphæum - harbour of Ithigia Marina
- little indent on s. shore of the promontory
~~first~~ w. of the Cape Mala.

Cape Mala - referred to the tip of the peninsula
but whole peninsula was known as Mala.

Epidæium - most likely was near site of Ag. Phokas where there are some remains under the water BSA 1907-8.
Cape Kamilo (below Kato Mostaniá) was suggested previously because it was the coastal spot most suitable for a settlement and there were some ruins reported there whereas none had been yet recorded at Ag. Phokas. Ag. Phokas perhaps now more probable, as an extensive site though C. Kamilo perhaps suits the washing ashore story better

Minoa - ^{mod.} Monemvasia

Epidaurus himera - on shore towards n. end of beach between Monemvasia & Palaea Monemvasia. Name Palaea Mon. now transferred from Epid. himera site to cluster in little harbour

Water of Ino

Pausanias right about pretty pebbles

Pharis - on flat topped hill just south of Vaphio theolostomb, which is about 1 km. from rd through Vaphio village. Turn-off for village is at s. end of mod. Amydes agglomeration. Pharis is almost directly across river from Skoura. Vaphio seems to be the heuho of our Koukhopoulou Pelop. map.

Plaka of Leonidi - most likely site for Brasiai, remains of walls on high hill above town & also ^{small stretch visible above &} close to road. Harbour is modern but there may have been a fair anchorage at the mouth of the copious stream which also provided a plentiful water supply. Valley very fertile, all cultivated well watered with another copious ^{many vegetable} stream on n. side of valley, very well protected by steep, verticle reddish mountain cliffs. Not many signs of habitation area which is prob. now all covered by olives, Plaka & the road.

Poulithra - site of ancient Polichna. Only about 5-6 km. by road from Plaka. Anc. settlement on Vigla Hill which rises fr. the head of the modern harbour just s. of village. Good stream in valley which is fertile but not nearly as flat as Leonidi. Not mentioned by Pausanias but he must have seen it just before disembarking at Brasiaí. Agrotikí road from Marí comes down to coast here.

Paralia of Agios Andreas - the ancient site with fine polygonal walls on the Nisi hill above the modern ~~to~~ small modern harbour was probably Akthra which existed in Classical times and was one of the 3 settlements in the Thyreatic Plain in Pausanias day (along with Neris & Eoa-houhou. Site of Neris being unknown). Upper city of Classical Thyea was probably Helloniko, the harbour city of at Paralia Astrous Quine - this is the site of ancient name of the site of the fresh water spring bubbling up vigorously in the sea over 100 m from the nearest point on the shore. Paus. does not mention it in his account of Kynouria, since he evidently went from herma to the Thyreatic Plain by the difficult mountain rd. inland & west of Mt. Zavitsa (see Papachatzis). However in his account of Nestane & the Argon Pedion (unworked plain) in Arcadia (P. VIII. 7.2) he mentions that the water of the plain disappeared into a katastoma & emerged again in the sea at Quine. Spring is very conspicuous in calm water & it seeps spread over a very considerable area.

First Trip

Therapne - east of the ~~point~~ ^{where of} the ~~point~~ ^{the point} ~~the point~~ ^{the point} the Meneleion stands ^{on a spur} overlooking the Eurotas opposite the mouth of the River of Mogoula, there have been excavated remains of a Br. Age habitation-site. These remains actually occupy the ~~the~~ part of the crest of the ridge linking the Meneleion site to the higher hills to the east. Presumably the habitation-site was Br. Age Therapne, the association of which with the Br. Age Royal House led to the establishment of the historical shrine of Menelaus & Helen.

Phoebæion - probably ^{close to} on the w. bank of the river s.e. of Sparta & more or less opposite the Menekleion

Alesias^(anc.) used to be placed near Mistra or Paros, but is now thought to have been immediately s. of Ag. Ioannis where there are Classical remains in olive groves.

Alexia (mod) - the anc. name has been given to the former village of here n.e. of Ag. Ioannis w. of highway

Phellia River - prob. the river immed. s. of Riniotisa.

Pharis - almost certainly the low flat-topped hill of Paleio pyri immed.
s. of the tholos tomb of Caphios
overlooking the Eurotas ^{more or less} across the river from Skoura. Was perhaps the city of the Eurotas Valley in the Pr. Age.

Amyklai ^(anc.) - was only a village in historical times with a sanctuary of the goddess of the underworld with the local name
Alexandra & of her consort Zeus Chthonios; Alexandra was locally ^{identified with} ~~as~~ ^{Zeus} her consort with Agamemnon, ~~and~~ whose tomb was shown there.

Dedications to Agamemnon & Alexandra have been found, and Pausanias mentions also a repres. of Klytemnestra.
The anc. village of Amyklai was and the shrine of Alexandra was s.w. of the Amycleion on the eastern edge of mod.
Amycles around the church of Ag.
Paraskevi (sherds & inscrip.)

Zeus Messapeus - is now placed s.e. of Xerochambi at Anthochori (sherds & inscribed tile)

Bruseai - the name suggests springs and Bruseai has been various placed from Ag. Ioannis to the Kalyvia of Socha, and even at ~~Amurgha~~ but the favoured site is now near the hill with a Church of
S. Basil on the side road to Arkasadhes and Xerochamli (for the pre-historic site) n. of Arkasadhes (for historical times)

Mount Laleton - one of the isolated rocky masses of Taygetos. Which one depends on the placing of Bruseai

Evora & Therai - similar uncertainty

Sanctuary of Eleusinian Demeter - s. of Kalyvia of Socha (dedicatory inscription)
(BSA 1950 278)

Lapithaion - on Taygetos but not identified version - " " " " " "

Harplea - may be at Xerochamli; at any rate existence of bridge suggests an imp. site nearby

Croceai(mod) - this is Frazer's ~~Levetsova~~ Croceai(anc.) - probably just east of mod Pharos (Frazer's Alai Bey) Croceai quarries - about halfway between Alai Bey & Stephanis

Aigiai(mod.) - is ~~the~~ a village right on the modern highway across a small plain, to the east of the Bardounia
R. & n. of the marshy area (Frazer's ~~Heinni~~ - no longer any village.) ^{as shown on Greek map.} The demotic form of Aigiai is transcribed phonetically as Edes

Aigiai(anc.) - on the n.s. ridge between the plain w. of mod Aigiai & the highway on the one side and the Bardounia R. on the other.

Mythion - relation of anc. Lyth to modern city (formerly Marathousi) best shown on the Bas' plan (~~see~~ land-fee)
Anc. acropolis about army camp theatre
- still partly in olive groves but modern city expanding up west slope.
T. of Athena presumably near peak;
agora prob. s.w. of theatre. Rhauae
Island formerly Marathousi. Mignonion & Senc. of Aphrodite Mignonitis (goddess of Union) must have been between end of causeway & foot of hill hagnion

more or less around original core of modern town. Fields shown in the Bas' plan now covered by extended mod. city. The island is called today Krania or Marathonisi.

Trinaxos - properly speaking the group of three islets off the coast 6-7 km from Gythion, and still known as Trinaxia. In anc. times the port on the mainland was also Trinaxos.

Mani

Kas - original town on Hill of Passara (anc. Mt. Asia). Anc. walls in those of Castro¹²⁵⁴ could be Bronze Age. In Paus. day Kas was on the low ground between Mt. Asia & the neighboring hills of Ilios & Kmakadion (prob. the more inland of the two on the rt. of the rd. as one goes down to the sea)

Hypsa - site unknown

T. of Artemis Dietyinna - prob. on promontory of Ageranos (anc. Arainos). Smeonos R. flows into Ageranos Bay. The River Sharas probably the river flowing into the bay on the other side of Ageranos at village of Kamakes.

Aine - mentioned by Thucydides but not by Paus. - perhaps no longer existed. Was probably on Skutari Bay.

Pyrrihas - Paus. next stop after the Skyras mouth. Site occupied by modern Pyrrihas (formerly ~~Piraios~~).
Anc. agora perhaps ^{above} well nearest to road.

Lutthone - prob. the anc. settlement was always on the Peninsula Skopa and the adjacent mainland rather than on the site of mod. Kotronas where so many anc. blocks have been re-used.

Kionia - the Koumo temple site & town to south are not mentioned by Pausanias who went from Lutthone to Taenaron by sea.

Harbours of Achilles & Psammathos.
Psamm. is ~~Porto~~ Rayio, the Harbour of Achilles is Marinari.

Poseidon at Taenaron - on Porto Kisternes (or Sternes) which was the original site of the ~~city~~ town of Taenaron.
The later site at ^{mod} Kyparissos was known as Caeneopolis (New City).
Name Taenaron sometimes used to refer to the whole main peninsula.

Thyrides - is Ravo Grosso. Hippola, generally identified with ^{mod.} Hipoula, was in ruins in Paus. day.

Messa and harbour were in the protected bay between Tigani peninsula and Megapros. ~~and~~ On Tigani are the ruins of the XII Cent. Castro of the Mami Sellasia (anc.) - acc. to Pritchett the hill of Ay. Constantinos s. of the Vresthena turnoff, which was certainly walled around the top was a fort only, not a town. The town site was on the hill of Palioyoulas around which the Vresthena rd. loops just before descending to the Oeaus (~~set~~ mod. Kellephina) River. Pottery, frag. & rubble walls all over the hill. Across the river to the n. are the twin peaks (now all terraced) of Mt. Troules ("domes"). East of the Kellephina is Mt. Provatares on a saddle of which the infantry engagement of the Battle of Sellasia was fought. The cavalry engagement was west of the river and north of the foot of the descending ridge of Mt. Troules.

Oitylos (mod. same site as anc. city). Oitylon in Paus., Bityla in Ptolemy the Geographer, accord. to Strabo also Baetylos. In mod. times Oitylo until Resumption of anc. form Citylos.

Thalamai - mod village on site now has anc. name, but was formerly Pentipheri. Location farther north at Platsa now rejected on basis of inscriptions ~~at southern~~ ^{at} site of Thalamai. [including Caracalla base]. The fountain of Imo now completely underground, with water piped, & bed of above with has assorted vestes built into it.

Platsa - Beake may have suggested this site for Thalamai because of the large ~~amount~~ ^{number} of anc. blocks in the church on the bluffs of the mod. village Platani, close to the highway. (S.W. of Komitzi)

Pephras - the islet of Pephras on which the Prosperi were born is presumably the low rock in the sea just off the promontory on which Ay. Demetrios now stands. The area of the rock above water would have been greater in antiquity.

Pephras town site (anc.) - the best town site in this region, not excluding Ay. Nikolaos N. of Parnisos mouth would seem to be the prom. of Ay. Demetrios on which the great square tower (Frankish or Turkish?)

still stands. Also found in the form Pephron

Leuktra or leuktron^(anc) - The akropolis was on the low ~~flat~~ flat-topped hill between the highway to the east & modern Stoupa on the shore. There are anc. architectural ^{members} around the chapel of S. Nicholas beside the highway, but we did not see the Doric cap., Papachanis p 453 fig 455

Mod. Leptro or leptro is on the other side (east) of the highway from Stoupa
and the anc. site, which has sherds from Myc. all through ~~Gk.~~ & Roman.

Kardamyle - also Skarthamyle or Skarthamyle (Doric). The name survived right down to modern times; however the
anc. site was on a steep sided height about 1.5 km from the sea (architectural members, rock cuttings & sherds from Myc. to Roman), whereas mod. Kardamyle has now moved almost entirely down to the shore, and slightly south of its ancient predecessor

Gerania - Trayer following Heakes placed Gerania at Litries on the coast of Aevia (formerly Paliochora); the French however, followed by Curtius preferred to place it at the Castro of Zornata, inland at Stavropigion since Strabo lists the city among inland settlements & not with those on the coast. There seems to be no ancient masonry in the above ground walls of C. of Garnata, but sherds from Myc. on are reported

(cf. the Assoc. of Nestor & Gerenia in Homer)

Mt. Kalathion ^(anc.) must be the highest point of the Kephali peninsula w. of Garnata
& e. of Krities

Mt. Kalathion (mod.) - the anc. name has been given in mod. times to the much higher mt. n. of the Chircios and s.e. of Verga.

Alagonia - those who placed Gerenia at Krities identified Garnata with Alagonia (cf. Hozer, II. 403). With Gerenia more probably located at Garnata, Alagonia must be moved some six kilometers eastward to the neighborhood of Anatoliko, e. n.e. of Garnata and close to Kendro

Chircios Trench & Gorge - this is the ravine emerging into the plain of Rambo from the deep cliff between Votio & Altomira & descending from this level to the coastal plain through the deep gorge crossed by both the modern highway & its predecessor & presumably also by Parisanias. From the modern bridge one can see almost up to the 2000 m. level of Tzaggatos. This torrent bed divided Messenia from the free Laconians.

Choiraios Torrent is known today as the Sándaras; the name Proháras applies to the gorge which the ^{mod.} highway crosses.

Itiriés (see also under Gerania) - whether or not this was the site of Gerania, Pausanias must have come down to the coast not far away, perhaps just n. of the Sándaras mouth, and gone along the coast to Pharai (Kalamata).

Avia (Avia in mod. Greek) - perhaps originally an agglomeration of villages comprising the regions of the modern Mandiniás with the Paralía, mod.
Avia, and even ~~the~~ an inland region
towards Kambos (Papachatsis III. 89. ¹⁹⁰note 3); however in Paus. time the important area was the coastal settlement, more or less at ^{mod.} Avia (formerly Paliochora).

Avia (modern) - appears on older maps
as Paliochora.

Spring of Brachish Water (~~the~~ halmuiron hydor of Pausanias) - this spring must be the abundant water that springs from the rock below the Frankish tower of Mikri Mandinia and runs about 200 m. to the sea. On the cliff above the actual spring is a church Pharai (Pharai in mod. Greek) - now definitely fixed on & around the Castro of Kalamata.

Earlier attempts to place it inland, e.g.
at Eleochoi (formerly Giannitsa) were based on the mistaken view that there were no pre-Christian remains at Kalamata. Whatever the situation in Homeric times, the main Spartan rd. to Messenia was not through the Langdha to Pharai, but further south, probably from Xerochambi to Kardamyli

Thouria (mod.) - on the main rd. Kalamata to Megalopoli is a ~~few~~ couple of kilometres
S. of the anc. site, which stood on the long ridge above & to the E. of the highway
at the mod. village of Anthia

Thouria (anc.) - ~~is~~ known in Homeric times as ~~Athia~~. The name Anthia (pronounced Anthia in mod. Greek) has been given to the village on the highway which in fact prob. occupies a part of the lower lying area occupied in Paus. time - the Archaic & Classical city, and also Myc. ^{to the S.} Anthia, stood on the long ridge above the mod. village to the E.

Springs of the Parnisos - the Parnisos of Pausanias seems to have been the river of which the springs are at Ay. Floros and just to the north ("Matia") where the modern hydraulic station stands). ~~The~~

The River Ais - since Paus. says that this flowed past Thouria, it must be the river of which the springs gush forth and near the Epohiko Kastro ~~are~~ of Petalidima.

Koroni (anc.) - this city was on the site of mod. Petalidhi. It was abandoned

Koroni (mod.) - in anc. times, e.g. in Paus, this is the site known as Asine.

Epidaurus (anc. town) - on the Saronic Gulf on the promontory immed. s. of the ^{mod.} village of Palia Epidavros

Nea Epidavros - a new & entirely mod. ^{next} settlement about 1 km. from the coast & 5 km. by road from Palia Epidavros; has a paralia on the shore.

The Asclepion of Epidaurus - generally known ~~as~~ simply as Epidaurus, and located some 15 km or more inland (west) of Palia Ep., near ^{mod.} Pygourio ~~(the)~~ Spring, the weather is very warm and sunny.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem. It is shown that the problem is of great importance in the theory of the structure of the atom.

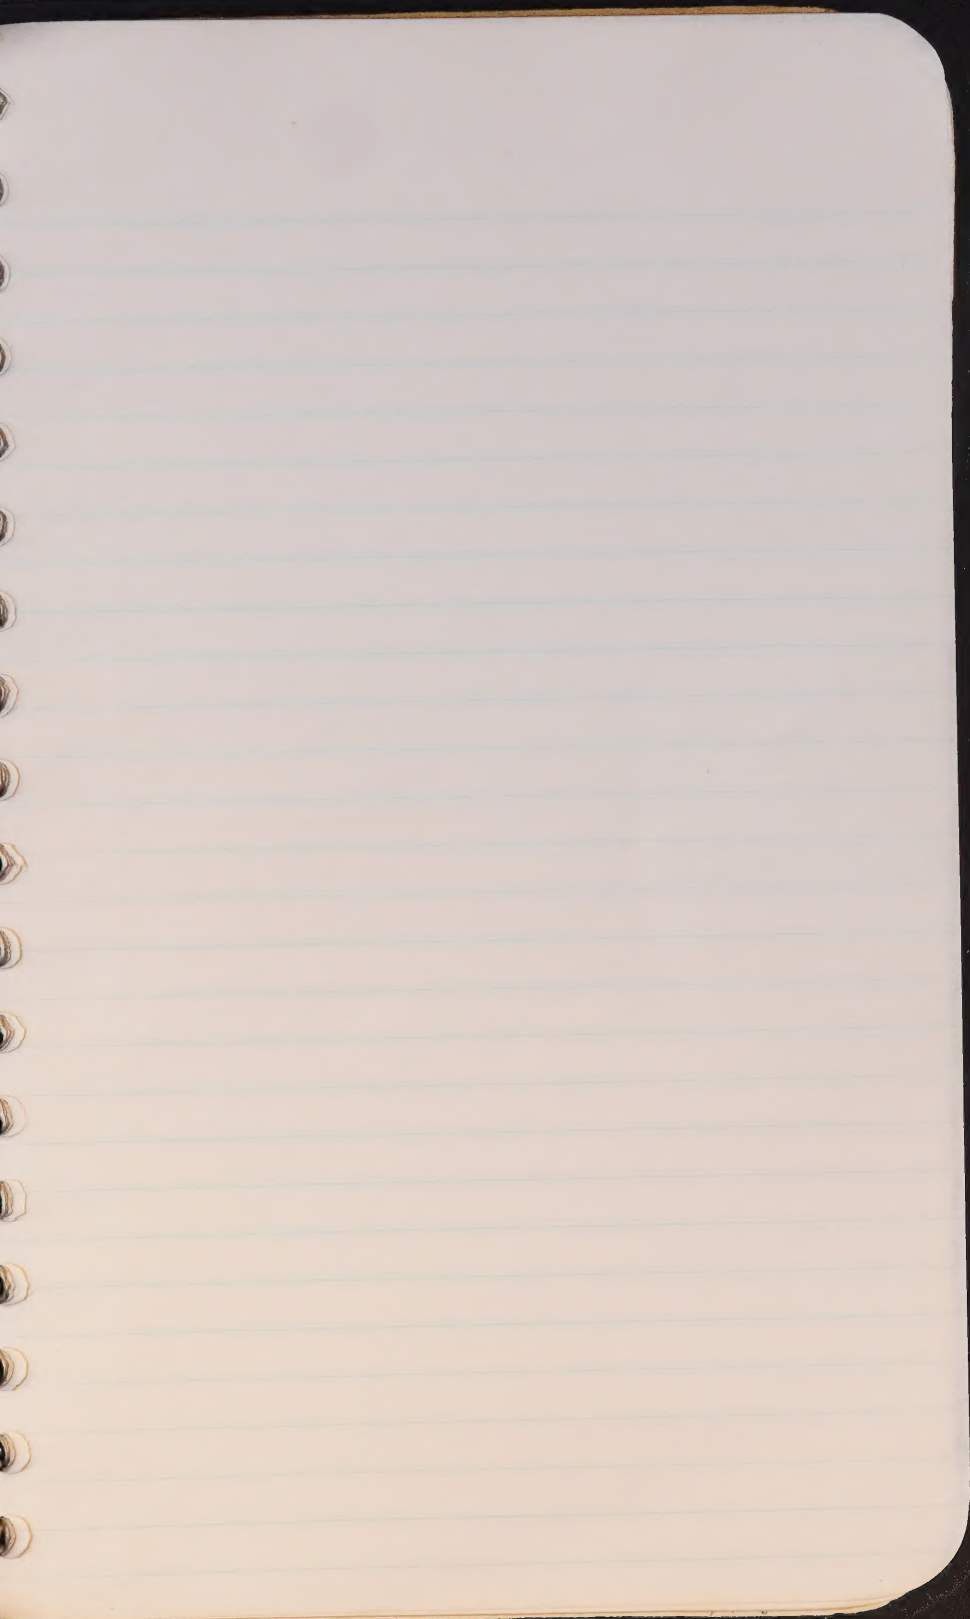

2. In the second part of the paper the author gives a detailed account of the experimental work which has been done on this subject. It is shown that the results of the experiments are in good agreement with the theoretical predictions.

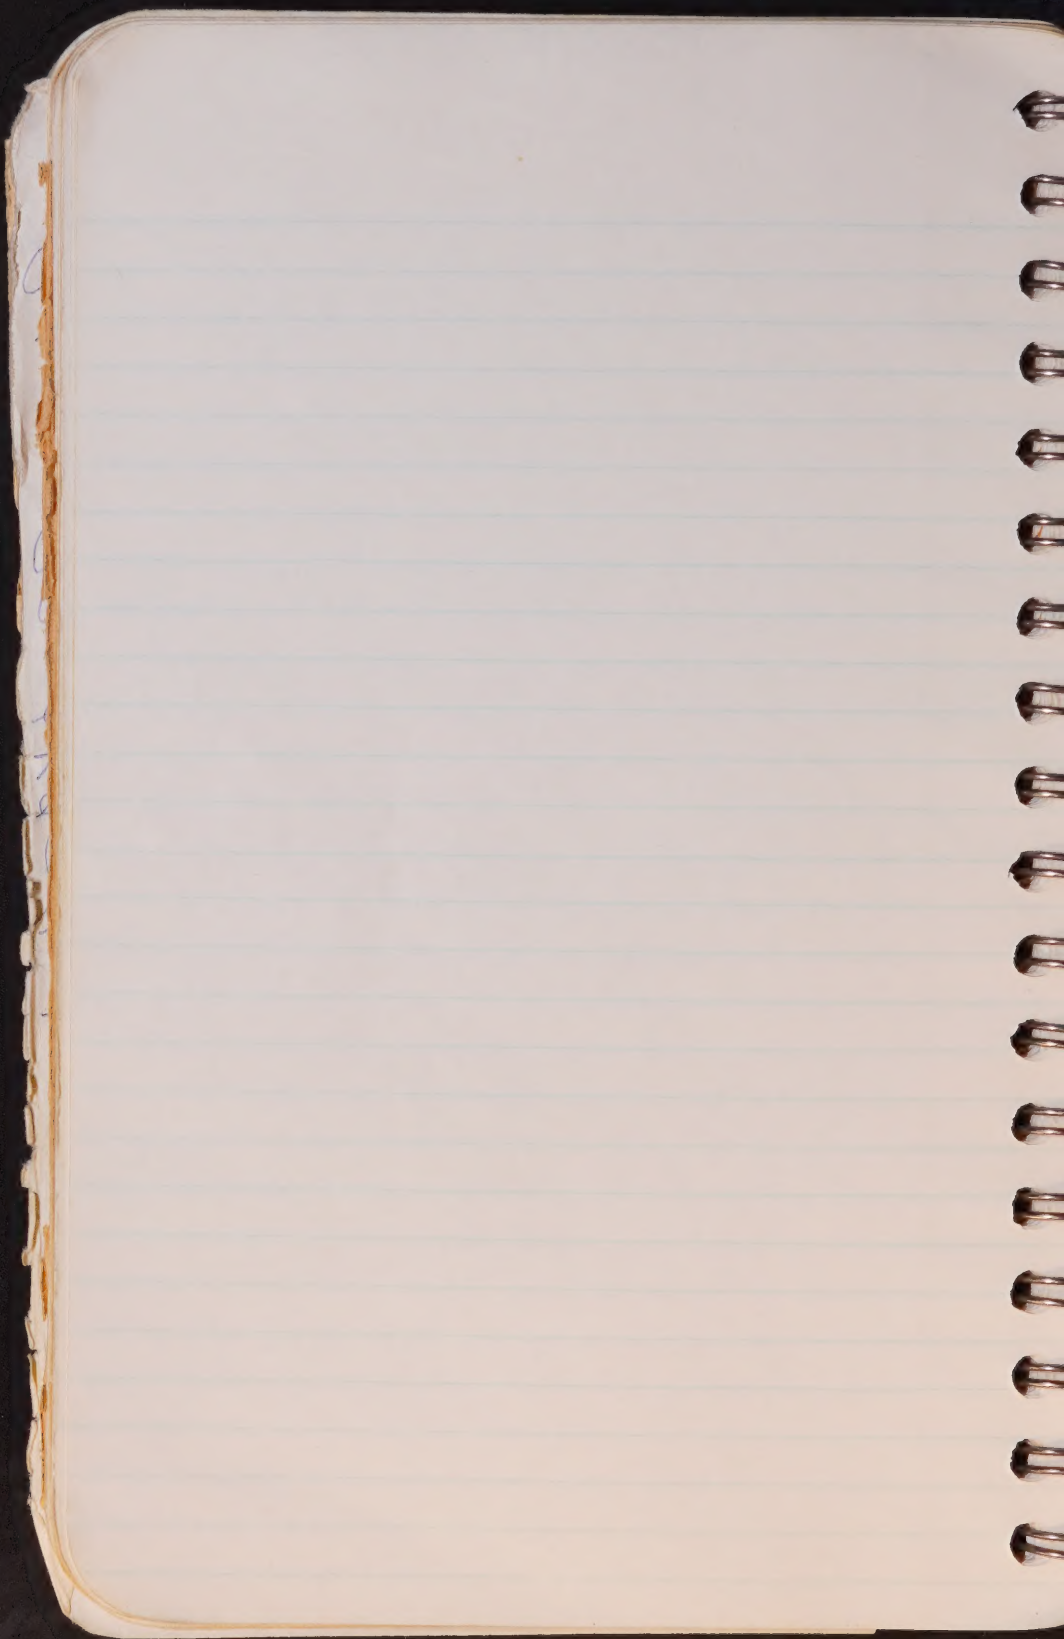

3. The third part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the results of the experiments. It is shown that the results are in good agreement with the theoretical predictions.
